

The Liberation Regatta

As July draws towards the halfway mark it becomes evident that fears about the success of Kelowna's thirty-eighth annual international Regatta were groundless, and daily there is new evidence that this year's aquatic event will measure well to the standard set during the last few years, when the show reached new peaks.

Come June each year and those interested in the annual aquatic show have a full attack of the jitters as there seems to be no outside swimmer who can come, no special attractions to be secured, no bands available; in short, no nothing. Plans are up in the air and a general atmosphere of confusion, uncertainty and complete chaos prevails. At about the tenth of July, however, there seems to be a ray of hope that things may be worked out; by the end of July a good show with plenty of competition is a certainty, and during the last week and the last two days before the opening of Western Canada's premier aquatic classic, the directors are driven crazy trying to work into their rigid program the last minute attractions that are available.

This year, apparently, is going to be no exception. Events have so far followed the pattern. There was the period of almost despair; then a conviction that the show would not be too bad this year. This was followed by a growing realization that there was little need to worry about competitors and special attractions. Now the period is one of finalization of plans, the gathering together of loose strings, and, while there will be some disappointments, there is every reason for confidence that the 38th Regatta will be able to stand on its own merits with those famous Regattas of the past four years.

If, as we believe, not too much to say that none of the Regattas of the past four years have seen plans closer to completion at this time than they are this year. The basic foundations of a successful show are already present. Excellent competition is assured; there will be plenty of good bands; an outstanding night show is well developed even now. Never before, perhaps, has the visiting delegation—this year headed by the Lieutenant-Governor—contained such a galaxy of prominent names.

And so, as July draws towards its halfway mark, the people of Kelowna may gather confidence in this year's presentation of the premier attraction in the Interior of British Columbia. There are still four weeks to go, but looking at it from this distance, there is every reason to believe that the Regatta will again live up to the reputation it has so deservedly won—the outstanding aquatic show west of the Great Lakes and one of British Columbia's premier sporting and holiday attractions.

If invasion names baffle the radio listener who speaks only English, think how they must puzzle the listener who also speaks French.

Cost Of Victory Loans

Budget speeches are usually rather dry reading, but in the speech delivered a week ago there was one little item of news which should be of special interest to the two and a half million Canadians who have bought Victory Bonds. Mr. Ilsley stated that in the year ending March 31, 1944, the costs incurred by the National War Finance Committee, with respect to the sale of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, amounted to only 87 cents for each $100 of securities sold—that is, seven-eighths of one per cent of total sales. This figure includes all expenses such as salesmen's commissions, advertising, administration, etc.

While war finance workers have appreciated that Victory Loan campaigns have been conducted at a phenomenally low cost level, there have been some sections of the general public which have been inclined to complain that too much money was being spent in salesmen's commission, advertising, and other expenses. These people now have the story of the operations over the last year, and it is but a repetition of that of other years.

To achieve such outstanding results at such a low cost is a proud record of accomplishment. It is a record which is made possible only by the voluntary services of the tens of thousands of people who form the voluntary staff of the National War Finance organization, by the tremendous energy and enthusiasm they bring to the discharge of the wartime responsibility which has been entrusted to them by their fellow-Canadians, and by the unremitting and wholehearted support given to Victory Loans by business firms, by the press, the radio, the motion picture industry and many other organizations and groups throughout the country.

Canadian war financing is creating something of a new record in the matter of low costs. It is a record of which we may well be proud.

Some of our British Columbia beach heads are blonde and some brunettes.

Victory Loan Quotas

Hon. J. L. Ilsley in his recent budget speech made one thing very clear; that the Canadian people must make a greater effort than ever before to finance the war through the purchase of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. He pointed out that the revenue from the compulsory savings of income taxpayers received by the Dominion during the past two years had contributed materially to the war financing program, but, with the compulsory savings no longer flowing into the Government treasury, this amount, at least, would have to be made up through the increased sale of Victory Bonds. He emphasized that the sale of Victory Bonds to individuals must be increased in the seventh loan next November.

One place where National War Finance heads hope to pick up this increase is in a greatly increased sale of bonds to farmers. Analysis of figures covering sales in the last loan to rural dwellers, especially in Western Canada, indicate that only a small fraction of the increased farm purchasing power has as yet been channelled into Victory Bonds. It would not be surprising, therefore, to see the whole question of allocations and quotas revamped prior to the next loan.

It will be remembered that in the last loan the same allocations were given to provinces and communities generally as in the previous loan. Actually, the total subscriptions were considerably higher in the later loan. Now, the frank exposure by Mr. Ilsley of the magnitude of present government financing has made it apparent that this whole question will have to be reopened and a new approach made.

Any reopening of the quota question will provide several headaches for the provincial committee in this province. The question is always a difficult one, but there has been growing in the Interior a feeling that this section of the province has been doing a little more than pulling its weight. At the request of the North Okanagan committee the three, Okanagan zones met at the conclusion of the last loan and discussed quotas. They went on record as being opposed to any further increases. Just what position they would take if the provincial quota should be increased is a matter for conjecture, but it is probable that they would resist local increases until they were satisfied that the Coast cities had absorbed an adequate share.

Some fear that if the C.C.F. were to win, a profit would be without honor in its own country.

Placing A Value On Citizenship

Down in Ontario, Judge Stanbury, of St. Catharines, has become concerned about the present easy procedure of acquiring citizenship in Canada by foreign-born immigrants, and has suggested methods for ensuring they have better qualifications for enjoying its privileges than many now possess. The procedure of admission is not quite as easy as it was before this

INVEST EXTRA PAY IN WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Dropping Of Compulsory Saving Tax Means Bigger Cheques This Week

MONEY IS NEEDED

C. R. Bull Suggests Every Employee Put Extra Amount In Stamps

"Employees when they receive their next pay cheque will find that they are now receiving that amount which formerly was deducted as compulsory savings. They should seriously consider investing this amount directly into War Savings," C. R. Bull, chairman of the local War Finance Committee, stated on Tuesday.

The new budget announced by Finance Minister Ilsley in the House of Commons last week eliminates the compulsory savings feature which has been in force in this country for two years. An amount in proportion to the income tax paid by the individual was deducted from each pay cheque with the income tax, and this amount was held by the Government to be paid to the individual after the war. This feature has been eliminated because many war workers persisted in considering the amount a tax and refused to work overtime.

"In this area," Mr. Bull points out, "there will be several hundred people who will have more money in their pay envelopes as a result of the change in government policy. In some cases the amounts will not be large each week and in other cases the amounts will be considerable. But the point is that this money was being taken off the side by the Government for the future use of the individual. Now this is not being done and each individual must make the saving effort himself."

"For two years this money was not used by him. It should not be used now when it is available. By putting it into War Savings, it will increase by twenty-five per cent in seven and a half years. Every four dollars increases to five dollars. By continuing to do without this money, the individual will be buying up a considerable nest egg for himself to use when there is more to buy and money can be spent to better advantage."

"There is another feature, also. As Mr. Ilsley pointed out it is more important this year than ever that we make every effort to do our best in the matter of purchasing Bonds and Stamps. The government saving program is greater than ever before. The change of policy regarding compulsory savings alone will reduce the government revenue by about two hundred million dollars. If all the amounts that were formerly compulsory savings were put into War Savings, the government revenue would only be replaced to last year's level."

"On could talk about the dangers of inflation, the advantages of saving one's purchasing power until the post-war period and a host of other points," Mr. Bull said, "but these should be well known by now. In any case, the main point is that this money was not used last year nor the year before. Why should it be spent foolishly now? It should be placed into War Savings, where it will do both the individual and the country the greatest amount of good."

"I suggest to all workers in this area that they go to their employers and ask that this money, which is not being deducted from their salaries after July 1st, be put to plan their employer operates for his employees War Savings. There are about thirty firms making regular deductions on this plan from their employees."

"If you happen to be employed by a firm which does not operate the plan, then as an individual you should buy Stamps or Certificates regularly through your bank."

"LIBERATION" CHOSEN AS REGATTA NAME

Winning Title Entered By Lieut. R. F. Parkinson Considered Best By Directors

In keeping with events of the past month, Kelowna Aquatic directors chose the title "Liberation" for the coming Kelowna International Regatta, which will be held Wednesday and Thursday, August 2-3.

The title was suggested by Lieut. R. F. Parkinson, former secretary-manager of the Aquatic, and he will receive a five dollar War Savings certificate as the prize for the best name entered. Many good titles were received, and the directors spent an hour debating the best half dozen before a vote indicated a substantial majority favored Parkinson's suggestion. Except for the fact that last year's gala bore the name "Liberty" Regatta, the directors would have been hesitating in picking "Liberation" without further discussion. The name "Invasion" had been submitted, and received strong support, but the consensus of opinion was that "in spite of a certain conflict with the 1943 name, 'Liberation' was so timely that it should be used to mark the 38th Kelowna International Regatta."

Apart from its similarity to the name used last year, the directors agreed that the name "Liberation" had everything needed as a Regatta title. So, "Liberation" it will be, and the directors will celebrate the freeing of victims of Nazi and Japanese tyranny, while at the same time they spend their money knowing that the Regatta profits will go to support the economic re-establishment of service men and women from the city and district.

America's Best Diver Will Give Exhibition At Liberation Regatta

Al Patnik Slated To Appear Here At August Gala—Cinch To Win National Crown, Says Daughters—Famous Seattle Coach May Also Be Here—Outstanding Program Of Events And Entertainment Assured

THERE has been a scarcity of top flight divers at Kelowna International Regattas during the past few years, but next August 2-3 spectators are going to see a young man who is second to none in diving competition.

This week Kelowna Aquatic directors received the welcome news that Al Patnik would make the trip from Seattle for the big show, and there is a strong possibility that Ray Daughters, outstanding U.S. swim coach, will accompany him.

In his letter covering arrangements for the trip, Daughters described Patnik as a "cinch to win the national U.S. amateur diving crown if he returns to competition. When Patnik dropped out of active competitive diving two years ago as a result of pressure of war work, he was ranked third in national ratings and was on his way up. His rivals have retired since that date, and Patnik is conceded the diving championship by coaches who know what the other leading competitors can do."

To assure that Patnik will be able to display his full bag of tricks, the diving stand at the Aquatic is being improved by the addition of a five metre board, and patrons can expect on thrilling exhibitions of high diving at its best.

The presence of Ray Daughters will also be welcomed by the directors. He has turned out dozens of outstanding swimming champions and is considered one of the world's greatest aquatic coaches. He is not optimistic about bringing any swimmers this year, as the war has decimated the Washington Swimming Club membership. However, his youngsters have turned up every year from Seattle on their own and, with Daughters making the trip, it is probable that a few fine junior swimmers will be on hand.

With additional talent from the Coast, and the expectation that ranking eastern stars will be on hand following the Canadian championship in Vancouver late this month, it looks as if the aquatic events will reach a standard of competition never before achieved by a Kelowna Regatta. With such a wealth of talent, there is a strong possibility that a number of Canadian records will fall and B. C. marks should be cracked wide open.

Although Army competition is still problematical, it is known that a group of Navy swimmers will be up from Vancouver, probably headed by Kelowna's own Sub-Lieut. Fred Thompson.

There are still a multitude of details of additional entertainment to be arranged before the gala gets under way, but sufficient material has already been secured to substantiate the old cry that the show this year will be "bigger and better than ever." Final arrangements for one or two crack bands should be completed in a few days, and the directors are flirting with the idea of bringing in a group of professional vaudeville stars to add color and variety to the Thursday night show. It looks like the finest Regatta in history.

Enthusiastic Regatta Meeting Endorses Plan For Net Profits To Go To Vets Rehabilitation

Funds Will Assist Administration Of Local Office Handling Benefit Claims For Returned Servicemen—Full Support For Gala Promised By Delegates—Ask Beach Patrol Of Prohibited Area

A splendid representation of delegates and Kelowna Regatta supporters assembled in the Aquatic lounge last Thursday night and signified their enthusiastic support to the big show on August 2-3, together with constructive suggestions for improvement of the two-day event.

The meeting supported the directors' recommendation that the net profits go to assist administration of the Kelowna and District Rehabilitation Committee by a unanimous vote, after hearing R. Whillis outline the work being done for returned service men and women.

Delegates from the Canadian Legion Women's Auxiliary, the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Greenville," Canadian Red Cross Corps (Kelowna Branch), Rotary and Gyro Clubs and the senior and junior Bands of Trade all signified that their organizations would be behind the Regatta 100 per cent and will do their individual parts in making the gala this "Liberation" year the most successful ever held in the event's history.

Presence of the Penitentiary R. C. Sea Cadet bugle band was promised by Lieut. Charman, R.C.N.R., and the popular head of the Kelowna corps assured the directors that his band would return from camp ready to carry out their duties as guards of honor for the Lady of the Lake, as messengers and as program sellers. He also offered the corps' services in connection with the beauty contest on Wednesday evening, and his suggestion that the cadets might form a guard of honor for the Lady of the Lake and her attendants on the barge and float will be placed before the Kelowna Junior Board of Trade committee which directs the pageant.

The fact that visitors sometimes were not aware that they were welcome at the Aquatic was brought up by R. G. Rutherford, and the

MASTER CONTROL OF IRRIGATION IS SUGGESTED

C. C. Kelley Says Development Is Federal Responsibility

MUST USE LAKE WATER Local Committees Should Pool Information For Rehabilitation Plan

Local committees having access to all possible sources of information and experience are needed if the full possibilities of the Okanagan in the rehabilitation scheme are to be fully realized. The local committee should channel their information and findings through a central or master committee representative of the whole Valley. This was the suggestion of C. C. Kelley, of the Soil Survey Branch of the Department of Agriculture, in an address to the Gyro Club on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Kelley warned that the bogey of overproduction might act to the detriment of the post-war plans here. He recalled that ever since fruit growing had become a local industry some people had talked about overproduction, but the produce had always been sold. At the present time there are 23,000 acres of fruit in the Valley and some four more expansion. Apparently they feel that this will supply Canada, the United Kingdom and all other export markets. As a matter of fact, the fruit grown in the Okanagan will not supply each person living in Canada with one package of fruit a year.

Mr. Kelley stated that probably no land reclamation scheme has ever repaid its costs in a strictly financial manner of speaking. But four million dollars had been spent on the development of water schemes in the Okanagan and the industry some people had not realized that investment 35,000 people are making their living and

COL. CABLEDU IS REPORTED WOUNDED

Lieut. Rex Carey Now Reported Prisoner of War

Two more names of interest to Kelownians have appeared in the casualty lists this week. They are those of Lt.-Col. F. N. Cabledu and Lieut. Rex Carey, M.C.

Mrs. F. N. Cabledu, Wolsley Avenue, has received word that her husband, Lt.-Col. F. N. Cabledu, of the Canadian Scottish, has been wounded in action in France. The nature of the wounds was not reported. Lt.-Col. Cabledu's home is in Victoria. Before the war he was active in the militia. He went overseas in 1941.

Major Cabledu has resided in Kelowna for several months. Lieut. Rex Carey, M.C., who was previously reported missing, is now reported to be a prisoner of war. Lieut. Carey formerly lived in Kelowna and attended school here. His mother, Mrs. Alice Muriel Carey, now resides at Holly Lodge, Davie Street, Vancouver.

He went overseas with the 1st Division and was a platoon commander attached to the 8th Army. He won the Military Cross at Leonforte during the Sicilian campaign for showing outstanding leadership.

GEN. KELLER IN MOVIE NEWS

Pictures of the investiture in which His Majesty the King made Major-General Rodney Keller a Commander of the Order of the British Empire are scheduled to be shown in the news reel on the program at the Empress Theatre on Monday and Tuesday next.

The ceremony took place in Normandy, just a short distance behind the front lines a few days after the beachhead had been established. Major-General Keller is the Kelowna man who has been leading the 3rd Canadian Division so magnificently in France. The troops under his command have been in some of the heaviest fighting and have brought renown to the Canadian Army and to the whole nation.

Advance information about the news reel, Manager Harper states, indicates that the shot is a good one of the investiture. Many local people will be interested in it.

Satisfactory Labor Situation Reported In Kelowna District

Importation Of Workers Has Established Labor Pools In Most Districts—High School Students From Trail And Coast Help To Solve Shortage—No Further Importations From Prairies Needed—Douks Working In Glenmore—Fifty Students Arrive At East Kelowna

Co-operation By Growers Solves Problem

EXPERIENCE gained during the past two years by officials of the War Emergency Farm Labor Plan, plus sustained and enthusiastic co-operation by orchardists of the Kelowna district, is reflected in the extremely satisfactory labor picture in the central Okanagan.

Two factors seem to stand out in a review of the situation as it exists today. Labor officials at the Coast have done a fine job of organizing High School students, and fruit growers have at last appreciated that full co-operation with the Placement Officer pays dividends.

CHERRIES MOVE IN VOLUME

Toms, Apples, Cots Starting—Potato Sales Poor

Thirty-seven full cars of cherries have already moved out of the Valley and the movement will continue to grow in volume for the next several days. In addition to the full cars there has been a large movement of less-than-car express lots which, in the aggregate, would amount to several cars.

In all, ninety-seven cars of fruit and vegetables have moved this season. The first cars of cherries went on the 28th. The next day two cars left, and on successive days the car movement of cherries was 4, 5, 6, 6, and 9 today, Thursday. The daily movement should reach 12 cars within the next day or so.

The weather for cherries has been good. There has been a little splitting, but this has been very light. The season thus far has been almost ideal.

Some of the early varieties of cherries, Tartarians principally, did not reach the market in good condition, and there have been some complaints.

There has been a trace of a movement in cots, semi-ripe tomatoes and early apples, but it has been very light. Semi-ripe and early apples may be expected to move in volume next week. However, field cucumbers are moving now in heavy volume from Oliver.

The early potato situation does not look promising. There are heavy supplies being held in the Coast and in the Okanagan, and during the past five days there have been two substantial price declines until now the delivered commodity is selling far below the ceiling price permitted by the W.P.T.B. The ceiling was established at $83 per ton delivered. The present delivered price is $60.

The cherry demand is strong. There was a trace of hail reported on Saturday following the heavy rain. Glenmore was particularly affected. However, the hail was soft and very little, if any, damage resulted.

It is expected that the price ceiling for cots will be announced within the next few days. While a few packages are now moving from Okanagan, the movement will not start in any volume until next week. Peak for Bing cherries is passing in the south, and picking is well under way in the Kelowna area for this variety.

LT. KNOX HELPS TO CARRY MAIL

Lieut. Bob Knox, R.C.N.V.R., son of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Knox, was commended in a radio broadcast last Tuesday for his part in delivering 200 bags of mail to units in Normandy two days after the invasion started.

The small mail boat apparently had several brushes with enemy E-boats but got through to deliver the precious letters and packages on schedule.

Lieut. Knox is attached to the Fleet Mail Office in England.

Young And Old Enjoy Fine Dominion Day Celebration

Rain Holds Off Until Last Event On Full Program—Sports Well Handled

Apart from the speeches late in the afternoon, the Dominion Day celebration at the Kelowna City Park, was definitely a children's affair, and youngsters numbering over five hundred made the most of the sports and refreshments offered during the day.

All events were well handled, and the addresses marking the Co-operative Centenary began promptly at four o'clock and both speakers were well received. The only disappointment of the day was the shower of rain that disrupted the Pro-Rec display, which was the final item on the full program.

The sports highlight was the open bicycle race, in which Albert Bianco and Phil Noonan, Jr., raced wheel to wheel, with Bianco winning by a whisper. Competition was keen throughout the races and jumps, and a fine spirit of sportsmanship was evinced by the youngsters taking part.

Albert Bianco led the boys with four firsts and Dorothy Marty set the pace for the fair sex with three victories. Winnifred Valentine took four seconds.

Free ice cream, distributed during the afternoon, was the main attraction so far as the children were concerned.

The downpour late in the day produced some amusing side lights. The crowd in the grandstand got a lot of laughs out of the plight of the officials who were marooned in the announcers' booth with only a small canvas to shield the deluge. The officials were kept busy emptying the canvas, which quickly filled and overflowed in the torrential downpour. It made a bad matter worse.

HART WILL BROADCAST

On Wednesday, July 12, Premier John Hart will give the first of a series of radio broadcasts dealing with political subjects. The program will be broadcast over station CKOV, starting at 7.30 p.m., and will last one half-hour.

During that period Mr. Hart will outline the accomplishments of the Coalition Government and discuss to some extent the future policy.

This broadcast will be in the nature of a Premier's report to the people, since it will be the first time he has spoken on the radio since assuming leadership of the Coalition Government.

PEACHLAND COUNCIL MEETS

Road Maintenance Difficult Owing To Labor Shortage

The regular monthly meeting of the Peachland Municipal Council was held on Wednesday evening, June 21, in the Municipal Hall, with the Mayor, Mrs. B. F. Gummow, in the chair.

A discussion took place on the type of belt to be used on the engine at the light plant, and it was decided to get more advice before final settlement of the question. Councillor F. V. Vernon gave a report on the roads and spoke of a washout on the road by Cameron's and Hawley's. There was a considerable amount of discussion on the road side, and Mrs. Gummow explained the difficulty of getting men to do the odd jobs around the municipality, as all the labor is being used in the orchards. Some cans were missed during Clean-up Week, it was reported. The Council granted $25.00 towards the upkeep of the Cenotaph.

The National Film Board pictures were shown on Wednesday evening, June 22, in the Canadian Legion Hall, with a matinee for children in the afternoon. The subjects were "Fighting Dutch," "New Scotland," "Cowboy" and "Sand and Flame."

A dance, sponsored by the Peachland Women's Institute in aid of the Quilt Fund, was held in the Athletic Hall on Friday evening. The local five-piece orchestra supplied the music and donated their services. There was a large attendance and every one reported a good time. In charge of the refreshments and kitchen were Mrs. W. D. Miller, Mrs. C. T. Redstone, Mrs. Z. C. Witt, Mrs. C. Duquemin, Mrs. H. M. Ibbotson and Mrs. B. F. Gummow.

Mrs. Z. C. Witt returned from Langley Prairie on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Stout, of Vancouver, were guests last week at the home of Mrs. J. G. Bradford.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hay and son, of Vancouver, arrived on Wednesday, June 22, to spend some time as the guests of Mrs. E. Telford.

Mrs. C. Williamson, son and daughter arrived on Saturday to spend a holiday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Miller.

Mrs. K. Ferryback of Kelowna, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Bain, of New Westminster, arrived on Saturday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Smalls.

J. Evans left for Oyama on Sunday, June 25.

Mrs. T. Twinn left on Monday to spend a few days in Westbank.

Mrs. A. Fawley arrived on Sunday, June 25.

DOREEN LAKE IS FISH PARADISE

Bob Haldane Lands Twelve-Pounder On Fly - Limit Catches

Fishing in the Dee Lake chain has been exceptionally good during the past two weeks, according to reports from Kelowna fishermen who have been holidaying at the resort.

All the lakes are good, but some beauties have been taken on the fly at Doreen Lake. Bob Haldane caught a 12-pounder at the far end and reports that a sedge hatch had the trout jumping all over the lake. Most of the fly fishermen landed five and six pound trout in Doreen and limit catches have been the rule.

The fish are in perfect condition, and one fisherman who has fished most of the streams in the Interior stated that it was the finest sport he had ever experienced in years of fly casting.

r.p.m.'s column

British Railways

Railways are part of the British landscape. To most people they have always been there. The railways have always been running. Their efficiency and reliability are taken for granted—every one in Britain counts on the railway services for bringing their newspapers, letters and parcels every morning, for supplies of every kind to restock their stores, and for the fighting men and women when they come home on leave.

Not the least important contribution to the Allied war effort is the part which Britain's railways have played—and are playing—in the vital task of maintaining communications.

Many problems have had to be solved—many difficulties surmounted. With what successful results, proved by the steady flow of essential traffic, day by day, night by night, year in and year out, over Britain's railway network.

One of the earliest wartime problems to be dealt with was the threat of air attack. Joint consultations took place between representatives of the managements and railway trade unions. All lighting had to be dealt with in a restricted way. Carried on in the open at night, such as shunting, marshalling freight or "goods" trains, driving trains, and consequently performed under dangerous and difficult conditions.

Station lights were hooded so as to throw a dim light straight down on the platforms, and this put a strain on the staff. Engine drivers and firemen, entirely enclosed in the engine cab because no light must show from the firebox, have carried on in great heat for their journey during the blackout hours.

The difficulties of shunters working amongst moving traffic, coupling and uncoupling wagons at night, without lights, will be apparent to every one. Also, railway staffs working inside engine sheds and workshops experience difficulties due to the subdued lighting and the necessity for closing doors and windows during blackout, resulting in a humid, smoky and dusty atmosphere.

Blackout installation in the early stages of the war was mainly improvised. Electric light bulbs were run with blinds drawn; or, where blinds were not fitted, with light shields.

However, with the passing of time and experience gained, standard blackout was installed. Coach windows were painted with a black paint, considerably less than those at which hostile aircraft might be expected to fly were undertaken by the R.A.F. in conjunction with railway officials. All colored light signals are fitted with light shields.

Speed of railway traffic was naturally affected, but such is the determination of Britain's railwaymen and railwaywomen to defeat the whims of the German that all staff engaged in the movement of trains and the handling of traffic have continued at work during air raids in order that passenger and freight trains may continue on their journey.

Upon an air raid warning being given after dark in any area, the speed of the passenger and freight trains is reduced to a given mileage per hour. There is no reduction of speed for a daylight warning.

It will be a long, long time before we forget the sensation of sitting in a tightly shut-up compartment in a train south of London during a raid. The ack-ack guns were booming all around us. Bit of us were in that compartment; it was so dark you could hardly see the person opposite you. It was much too much like being in a box or cave to suit me. I would have had a little more air and to have seen what was going on. To be able to see the raid is much easier on the nerves and it gives you something to think about besides yourself. Once during that confined period in the train there was a terrific crash not far from us. It may have been a bomb—we thought so—but we have no way of knowing. Whatever it was, it was close enough.

The war has made new demands on the railways due to military transport, which means working to full capacity for twenty-four hours a day. A large proportion of the movement of forces and war materials is carried out during blackout hours.

There has been a staggering number of United Nations army, navy and air force personnel in Britain which have had to be fed, equipped and housed. The transport of these men, women and supplies has thrown a heavy burden on Britain's railways. This has necessitated the running of thousands of special trains. The vulnerability of the east and south-east coast ports and the diversion of shipping to the west coast increased the traffic of the railways serving the west coast and disturbed the natural flow of freight traffic.

Mass movements have been taking place in Britain as men and munitions were marshalled for action. A thousand extra trains a day were being run a year ago, and this number must have been stepped up considerably, especially in the weeks before the Channel crossing. In February I found much good-natured tolerance about the acute problems of accommodation and cheerfulness, despite the withdrawal of the dining cars. One of our first experiences was the discovery that, if you wanted a drink while on a train journey, you had to have your own cup; if you wanted to eat, you took along your own sandwiches. Most travellers are prepared for austerity conditions. Packages of food and thermos bottles or bottles of beer are produced at meal times and there is frequently an interchange of food among the passengers. People who paid no attention to each other for the first couple or three hours of the trip will get together at meal times and make a bit of a picnic out of the combined food packages.

Travellers at the busiest stations are guided by the amplified voices of unseen girls, who announce the trains by means of loud speaker installations. Many railwaymen have been called to the services and have been replaced by girls. To the ear unaccustomed to the British accent these station announcements are sometimes rather puzzling.

South of London there was one chap who had been the announcer at a certain station for a great many years. In February, due to manpower shortage, he was moved from his station to a more important one a stop or two nearer London. The first night he went on duty, literally hundreds of people, hearing his voice automatically got off the trains thinking it was their station, when as a matter of fact it was not. The incident was confusing enough and amusing enough to cause considerable comment in the short-of-space London papers.

Through the carriage windows is the ever-changing panorama of Britain at war. At a busy junction field guns and a group of tanks on flat cars may be seen. Shunting engines give off white puffs of smoke as they move coal cars into a siding. The wheels of the colliers are whirling. A swan swims peacefully down a canal through a grubby industrial district. Factory chimneys are aflame or are giving off long trails of white, grey or yellow smoke—sure signs of hard work and industrial activity. The hills are growing into mountains as the endless chains of buckets drop their contents on the peaks. There are masses of salvage, old tin metal, garden gates and railing. Some are golden with rust as they wait their turn to go into the furnaces, a wait which will not be long delayed.

Looking across the open countryside from a station platform, it is perhaps easy to be lulled and to forget the urgency of war. War goods before passengers is an accepted fact, but comparatively few people, even those who make journeys by train, see more than a tithe of the enormous war traffic which is being moved by British railways.

The almost invisible character of the war freights is due to the secrecy which is essential to avoid giving military dispositions. Trainloads of war goods come from factories, mines, dockyards, depots and warehouses. They are routed to avoid busy stations and to travel by lines not frequently used by passenger trains. Closed sidings at factories and depots are pulled over the little cars to shield their contents from the weather and from enquiring eyes. Troop trains travel through the night, and the tanks are moved and the cargoes of ships arriving from overseas are transported almost without notice. There could be no heralding of preparations for attack.

In 1943 more than 20,000 freight trains a week were running on the railways. On one section of railway which carried little or no coal before the war, four trains a year was moving, requiring 160 trains a week.

More and more motive power is needed as the war mounts in tempo. War supplies must get through to the places where they are wanted, and steam locomotives help to get them through. The railway engine, today, is a weapon of war. Railway engines are backing up the fighting forces with all the power they have. In Britain they are moving the fuel to feed the factories; carrying workpeople to and from their work places; raw materials from the docks; fuel from the mines; foodstuffs to the camps, towns and cities; troops to action stations, as well as maintaining the thousands of ordinary train services for the civilian home front. And during the past few weeks, they have been moving untold thousands of tons of supplies and material to the invasion ports.

Overseas British forces have been strengthened. Along the desert lines locomotives engines are hauling trainloads of men, munitions and supplies. In Africa and Italy, on hundreds of miles of track far away from the fighting fronts, engines are hard at work pulling raw materials from mines and forests, saving many miles of hazardous journeys by precious ships. To push through war supplies to the gallant Russian armies, British railway locomotives have been sent to Persia.

And perhaps even now moving through the newly opened ports of Cherbourg, there are British engines and freight cars to convey supplies from the beachheads to the front line depots. For many months now preparations have been under way to have an adequate supply of rail transportation available when the big day of the invasion came.

The largest requirement was for standard gauge locomotives which can haul troops, munitions, foodstuffs and supplies on railways in any part of the world, and can be converted rapidly to the burning light rail lines.

These "austerity"—what a common adjective in Britain these days!—engines are not intended to break speed records, but they can haul trains of 700 tons at average speeds of between 30 and 40 miles an hour and carry additional supplies of fuel and water in their extra large tenders. Their simplified design and standardized spare parts will help towards rapid repairs. All embellishments have been sacrificed to the bare requirements of utility.

And so the British railways, which have played such a great part in the keeping of the tight island in the war, are now moving to wider fields. They will be doing their part in driving the enemy back out of France, out of Italy, out of Russia.

CO-OPERATION STRESSED ON DOMINION DAY

T. A. Switzer and Daniel O'Brien Address Holiday Crowd

In 1844 the Rochdale pioneers established a principle which, in simple words, might be described best as "seeking for justice," stated T. A. Switzer, addressing a crowd of adults and young people in the City Park on Saturday, July 1. The occasion was the celebration of the centennial of the Rochdale co-operative movement.

Mr. Switzer, who is Assistant Inspector of Credit Unions for B. C., went on to describe how co-operatives had improved living and housing conditions where they had been established. He told how the fishermen of Nova Scotia, by means of co-operatives, were able to sell their fish at the best available prices.

He stated that the credit union is the preliminary step to forming a co-operative. The purpose of credit unions is to make the people masters of their own economy. Members could borrow money for necessities through their own organization when they could not get it through established institutions and the only alternative was a money lender who charged exorbitant rates. In the credit unions, profits on money loaned were returned to the members at the end of the year.

The speaker concluded by stating that co-operatives were the extension of family co-operation into civic, national and international affairs. A credit union dealt in humanity as well as money.

Daniel O'Brien followed and told his listeners that before the Rochdale principles were established the weavers of Rochdale were governed by another principle, which had been aptly described in these lines:

"The good old rule,
The simple plan,
He shall take who has the power,
And he shall keep who can."

"Many wars have been fought because the common people had not learned to co-operate," said the speaker. "How well we are going to learn the lesson of co-operation this year?" he enquired. "Are we going to work together by means of co-operatives and trade unions, or are the boys in the forces coming back to flop-houses, to riding the roads and box car tops and to relief camps?" Mr. O'Brien challenged.

The speaker urged the people to unite, to forget racial, religious and political differences, and to see that the old system, so aptly described in the poem he had quoted, is amended, as it had produced fear, jealousy and destruction.

PROS AND CONS OF ORCHARD CULTIVATION

Summerland Expert Discusses Mid-Summer Cultivation In Irrigated Orchards

Many fruit growers make a practice of cultivating their orchards in midsummer. The principal advantages of this, says J. C. Wilcox, Summerland Experimental Station, are: (1) clean cultivation covers moisture; (2) if there is a heavy crop, it is turned under while still young and tender, so that it decomposes more quickly; (3) if the orchard is irrigated by the furrow method, the furrows sometimes become choked with weeds, so that cultivating and making new furrows helps with the irrigating; (4) turning under a tall crop makes it easier to spray, thin and pick; (5) cultivation during the summer controls tree hoppers, which often cause injury to young trees.

There are, however, a number of disadvantages in cultivating orchards such as: (1) irrigating after making new furrows induces a great deal of erosion or washing of the surface soil, which is especially true in hill-side orchards; (2) turning under a cover crop in midsummer tends to delay the maturity of the tree in the fall, with consequent immaturity and lack of color in the fruit; (3) midsummer cultivation and the making of new furrows increase the expense of orchard operation considerably.

Recent investigations in British Columbia indicate that erosion is much more serious in Okanagan Valley orchards than has been realized by many growers. In experiments at the Dominion Experimental Station at Summerland, the rate of erosion has been increased considerably by midsummer cultivation. Wherever water, midsummer cultivation of mature orchards is no longer recommended. "Where the water supply is deficient, the practice may still be advisable. It is also desirable to cultivate newly planted orchards five feet out from the trees for the first two or three years. It is not, as is generally believed, necessary to turn under a green cover crop, or even for several years, the cover crop eventually decomposes and releases to the soil the growth of crops, such as Kentucky bluegrass, perennial ryegrass, white Dutch clover and red clover, are preferable to sweet clover or alfalfa. If a tall cover crop is already planted, it can be mown in midsummer to advantage.

If it becomes necessary to renew the furrows in midsummer, this can usually be done without any cultivating. Using the ordinary ditching equipment, the furrows can be deepened and then cleaned out.

Except in cases of water shortage, midsummer cultivation is seldom advisable in irrigated orchards.

THE FUTURE FOR FIGHTERS

Answers to Questions About The Rehabilitation Program for Service Men and Women

Pensions

Q.—What is the basis on which pensions are awarded?

A.—A pension is paid to provide that portion of maintenance which a serviceman is unable to provide for himself due to service disability. Except where complete disability is a result of military service, the pension is not designed to provide complete maintenance.

For this reason, pensions are awarded on a percentage scale. For example, a man 5 per cent disabled gets a 5 per cent pension, while a man 75 per cent disabled gets a 75 per cent pension, i.e. 5 per cent or 75 per cent of total disability.

Q.—Who are eligible for pensions?

A.—All service personnel overseas who suffer disabilities during service may be awarded pension, if the disability is not a result of their own misconduct. Personnel serving in Canada with no overseas service, may be awarded pensions only if the injury or disease, resulting in disability or death, arose out of, or was directly connected with, military service.

Q.—Does this mean that, if I were overseas and injured in an accident while on leave, any disability resulting would be pensionable?

A.—Yes, provided the accident did not arise as a result of your own misconduct.

Q.—What is the scale of pensions?

A.—The annual rates for 100 per cent disability for all ranks up to and including that of Sub-Lieutenant (Navy), Lieutenant (Military) and Flying Officer (Air), are $200, $300, and $400 respectively, and for a second child, $144; each subsequent child, $120. Higher rates are provided for ranks above those stated, but the additional pension for children and children remains the same.

Q.—If I am totally disabled and need to secure an attendant, is any provision made for me?

A.—An additional allowance for helplessness, not exceeding $750 per annum, may be paid in the case of total disability when the services of an attendant are required.

Q.—If I am killed on military service, what pension will my widow get?

A.—Up to and including the ranks quoted before, a widow's pension is $720 per annum. Pensions for children remain the same. Higher pensions are provided for widows of officers above those ranks.

Q.—If I am killed on military service, what pension will my widow get?

VERNON VOTERS PASS BYLAWS

Creek Underdrainage And School Addition Approved Last Week

Vernon ratepayers approved two by-laws last week which authorize the underdrainage of Girouard Creek and the construction of an eight-room addition to the elementary school.

A total of 377 citizens voted out of 1,400 ratepayers on the voters list. Those in favor of the underdrainage numbered 244 and 322 favored the school addition. The work on Girouard Creek will eliminate a threat to the city's health and it will be commenced as soon as labor is available. The school addition cost is shared by the city and the Provincial Government and will cost Vernon $27,000. It will do much to alleviate a seriously overcrowded school situation.

GLENMORE

Miss Catherine Corner, who had been attending school in Victoria, returned home last Thursday for the holiday season.

Miss H. Riaca, of Victoria, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. MacFarlane, Bankhead.

L.A.C. Geo. Reed, Jr. has been transferred from Vancouver to Sea Island.

Miss May Watson returned to Vancouver last Saturday after a holiday spent at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Watson.

G. W. H. Reed, who had spent several weeks in the Kelowna General Hospital, was able to leave the city and is sharing the city and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paul, who motored up to take him home with them.

Bruce McWilliams, of Vancouver, is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Corper.

J. MacInnis, who had been a patient in the Kelowna General Hospital, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gawley, of Trail, spent a few days last week at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. H. J. Harden. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. Holmes and Mrs. Esel, and left to return home on Sunday.

Cherry picking is in full swing this week, with an abundant crop to handle.

LAWN BOWLING TOURNAMENT

The Kelowna Lawn Bowling Club held a local tournament, on Saturday, July 1st, with an excellent turnout. The game in the afternoon was won by a rink skipped by W. Lloyd-Jones and the evening play was won by J. M. Holding's rink. A picnic supper was served by the ladies of the club.

The man who puts out the last spark of his camp are generally acquiring the reputation of being a good woodsman.

KAMLOOPS DOG-CATCHER VERY BUSY

Kelowna Man Engaged To Clean-Up Mainline City

William Blackwood, of Kelowna, who has been employed by the City of Kamloops as dog-catcher, is at work this week, according to the Kamloops Sentinel.

"He commenced his duties on arrival in town Friday and is having a busy time rounding up dogs without licences and dogs at large between the hours of 9.00 p.m. and 7.00 a.m., as prohibited by the civic by-law," the Sentinel says.

Blackwood gave complete satisfaction in Okanagan towns where he cleaned up the loose dog situation. "Any fear that cruelty is employed is allayed in the knowledge that Mr. Blackwood works bare-handed. His only equipment being a small piece of sash-cord to use as a leash. Although he has been doing similar work (as well as keeping dogs while he is away) for three years, he has not yet been either bitten or scratched by a dog. He and the dogs seem to have a natural understanding of one another. The dogs so far rounded up one was half coyote."

JOHNSTON IS AGAIN CHAMP

Repeats Last Year's Win Over Les Roadhouse In Golf Open

Harold Johnston successfully defended his open golf title last Sunday when he defeated Les Roadhouse in the final for the Kelowna Golf Club men's championship.

Both finalists had to battle hard to win their semi-final rounds. Johnston gave Johnston a rousing fight all the way, and the result was in doubt until the last green.

Young Garth Macdonald also carried Roadhouse to the last hole to lose to his more experienced opponent one up.

The final match was a duplication of last year, when the same two finalists met with Johnston the winner.

FEW SHIPS LOST IN MEDITERRANEAN

Allied control of the Mediterranean was confirmed by Admiral Sir John Cunningham, Naval Commander-in-Chief in that area, when he disclosed that Allied shipping losses in all Mediterranean supply operations over a sample three months of this year were only 28 of one per cent—just over one ship in four hundred.

"At any moment there are 230 merchant ships moving across the Mediterranean under Allied naval protection," he went on. "In one recent month, merchant vessels entering or leaving Mediterranean ports on internal Mediterranean voyages alone numbered practically two thousand."

"The vast procession of shipping carrying food, fuel, equipment and ammunition for the Italian front requires our ceaseless guardianship against submarines, mines and aircraft. Other shipping is bringing food for the peoples on both shores of this sea, while yet another fleet is engaged in supplying the Pacific war zone."

ONE AIRWOMAN WEARS EARRINGS

She Is Also Only One to Wear "Mexico" Flash

L.A.W. Edith Walker has two features which distinguish her among her sisters in the R.C.A.F. Proudly she wears the flash "Mexico" at her shoulder, and small pearl earrings adorn her ears, the only airwoman with that privilege. She is the only W.D. to enlist from Mexico, and the earrings were pierced in her ears when she was thirteen. They are a permanent fixture.

Her father, born in Hanley, England, spent his boyhood in Winnipeg and from there went to Mexico, where he married a girl of Spanish lineage. Edith was born in Tampico, but her father, George Warrington Walker, lives in Mexico City.

Service in Canada's fighting forces is a tradition in the Walker family. Her uncle, Lieut.-Col. Philip Walker, D.S.O., of Winnipeg, died of wounds received in the last war.

Her paternal grandfather, Sampson Walker, was a member of the Manitoba Legislature. As an airwoman, Edith frequently has visited her Canadian relatives still living in the West.

Her great-grandfather, on her mother's side, married the daughter of a well-known Spanish family, Maria Antonieta de la Vega y Vereli.

Edith is fond of Canada. She was educated at a U. S. school and at the Incarnate Word convent in Tampico. Enlisting at Toronto last September on her twenty-third birthday, she was stationed at Vulcan, Alberta, before being transferred to Ottawa.

She speaks French and Spanish fluently and teaches these languages to airwomen and W.D. officers in their off-duty hours. There are 22 pupils and she says they are doing well.

She spends her leave with a school chum from Mexico, Elva de la Vega, at Bellevue convent, Quebec City.

bec City. "Quite a few Mexican girls come to this convent to study," she said. "They know how to speak French and they find French schools an easier graduation to English."

KELOWNA HERDS FREE OF T.B. ON INSPECTION

Tests By Vet Satisfactory—Dairies In First-Class Condition

The report of Dr. Avison, Okanagan Health Unit Director, covering the news that a veterinary inspector had tested all cows in the district and had found the herds free of T.B.

All dairies in the district have been inspected and are up to the standard required for sanitary operation. New equipment has been installed in many cases, and the Director expressed complete satisfaction as to the operation of all dairies.

Several wells in the Woodlawn district, just outside the city limits, have been found unsatisfactory and chlorination was carried out to kill bacteria. Dr. Avison expressed some concern at this situation and advocated extension of city mains to serve residents in that area.

Mayor McKay remarked that the logical solution was for Woodlawn to become part of the city, when its residents would be entitled to city services.

May we have the vision to use our natural resources wisely. Protect—use—restore: that is the creed of the true conservationists.

RUTLAND MAN PASSES AWAY

Earl S. Bush Dies At His Home—Wife, Three Children Survive

The death occurred on Thursday, June 29, at his residence in Rutland, of Earl S. Bush, aged 54, a native of Bristol, England, and a resident of the Rutland district since 1918. He was a veteran of the First

Great War, in which he served in the 54th Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, receiving wounds that caused partial deafness. Death was caused by cancer, following a few months of illness. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, Elizabeth Addy, to whom he had been wedded only ten months ago, and three children by a former marriage, Roy, now serving overseas with the R.C.A.F., P/O Douglas Bush, in the R.C.A.F., recently decorated with the D.F.C., and a daughter, Irene, of Rutland. He is also survived by three brothers and two sisters still residing in England and a brother in Vancouver. He was predeceased several years ago by his first wife, Anne Ripley, and a son, Earl, who died in 1923. Besides engaging in fruit growing, the late Earl Bush was employed for a number of years on the Kelowna Westbank ferry. He was an active member of the Kelowna Branch of the Canadian Legion, serving at one time as club steward.

The funeral service was held on Sunday July 2, from St. Michael and All Angels, Kelowna, and was conducted by Ven. Archdeacon Catchpole. There was a very large attendance and members of the Canadian Legion turned out in force to do honor to their departed comrade. "Last Post" was sounded over the grave in the Kelowna Cemetery. The pallbearers were John Bell, J. Charlton, A. Mitchell, F. Gavell, Wm. Mack and L. A. Hayman.

POUNDKEEPER'S REPORT

The report of the City Poundkeeper for June, which was filed with the City Council on Monday, showed that five dogs of assorted breeds were impounded and destroyed when unclaimed.

Two dogs were sold and one redeemed during the month. Two cows were impounded and redeemed by their owners.

Word of Poundkeeper Blackwood's ability to rid the city of stray dogs reached Kamloops, and as a result a brief visit was paid by him to the Main Line city recently. It is reported that a cleanup was made in record time.

LAST RITES FOR AIRWOMAN

L.A.W. Kathleen Kronbauer Dies In Winnipeg Hospital

Funeral services for the late L.A.W. Dorcas Kathleen Kronbauer, daughter of Mrs. K. Benesch, of East Kelowna, were held last Tuesday morning from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, with Rev. Father Driscoll officiating.

The deceased airwoman passed away in Deer Lodge Hospital, Winnipeg, on June 29 after a short illness. She had served in the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) for approximately a year, enlisting from Vancouver. She was educated at East Kelowna and moved to Vancouver two years prior to joining the Air Force.

HOCKEY STAR REPORTED MISSING

Peter Dawson Starred On Kelowna Team—Third Applejack Casualty

Word has been received in Kelowna that Flight-Sergeant Peter Dawson, former Kelowna hockey star, has been reported missing following air operations with the R.C.A.F. over enemy territory.

Dawson played defence for the Kelowna Applejacks during the 1940-41 hockey season. He is the third member of that team to have been lost on Air Force operations.

Vern "Slim" McHarg, who played forward, has been reported missing for some months, while Johnny McDonald, a left winger, was reported killed on operations.

LOTS SOLD AT REDUCED PRICE FOR PLAYGROUND

City Council Recognizes Valuable Work Done By Dr. and Mrs. Gray

After hearing a report from Ald. O. L. Jones covering an application by Dr. R. E. Gray to purchase two lots used as a playground for children, the City Council decided last Monday night to sell the two lots for $125.00.

Dr. Gray and his wife have conducted the playground for many years as a community service and some forty children make use of the facilities. In recognition of the unselfish work accomplished, the Council decided to contribute to the effort by selling the two lots for the price of one.

Dr. Gray has had the use of the lots for some years, but he requested that a sale be made or a lease given, so that the work could continue without danger of the property being sold for residential use. The present transaction will ensure that the site remains available for playground use for the youngsters in the neighborhood.

OKANAGAN MISSION

Mr. and Mrs. St. G. P. Baldwin, L.A.C. Percy Cookson, R.C.A.F., Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Barlee, John Barlee and Ernest Baldock left last Monday for Cariboo Lake, where they will spend a few days fishing.

Miss Mabel Kuipers left last weekend for Vancouver, to spend a short holiday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Ootmar.

Miss H. M. Duke left last week for Kamloops, en route to the Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent-Barber and their two children, of Vancouver, are spending a holiday in the Mission.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins and family have arrived in the Mission from Manitoba. They have taken up residence in Miss Leslie Hay's house.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Merkle (nee Rosemary Johns) have taken up residence in the Mission.

Mrs. G. Purslow and her small daughter, Ann, are visiting friends in Benvenuto.

APPLICATION TO BUY LOT IS TABLED

An offer by C. G. Leslie to purchase a large lot on Osprey Avenue, together with a request that the Council approve the erection of one or more tourist cabins, was tabled by the City Council on Monday night, pending investigation by the Building Inspector.

Before the transaction is approved, residents in the neighborhood will be interviewed as to their attitude towards erection of the cabins.

OUTGO...

If rising prices and costs were allowed to keep pushing each other up, inflation would be unavoidable. That's what inflation is—a panic rise in prices—with money losing its value and confusion everywhere. To prevent inflation, a ceiling has been set on prices and profits,—wages and salaries have been controlled.

If one person demands higher prices—another higher profits—another a higher wage or salary—soon everybody would be making the same demands—demands on everyone else.

Then costs of production could not be controlled.

The ceiling could no longer be held.

Living costs would go up—

DISTRICT'S HEALTH IS SATISFACTORY

Health Officer Pleased—Two Interesting Cases in Summerland

The general health of the Kelowna area has been excellent during the past six months, according to Dr. Avison, Medical Health Officer for the district, who states that there have been no cases of the major diseases. In his opinion, this is due in a large measure to the immunization program which has been carried out in most of the schools of the district. Only East Kelowna and Mission Creek schools have not as yet been covered by the program.

It is true that there have been half a dozen cases of scarlet fever in the district during the past few months, but in every case the person concerned had not been immunized. Dr. Avison points out that there are cases of scarlet fever in the surrounding districts but none in the territory under his jurisdiction, which includes Pentiction, "Of course, we are lucky," he states, "but nevertheless the condition is most significant."

Recently, two cases of interest to medical men have occurred in Summerland. One concerns a woman who fell from a tree and broke her leg. The leg was set but swelling developed which turned out to be a very rare type of gangrene.

The leg was amputated but the condition persisted and a second amputation was necessary. That type of gangrene is most rare, most medical men never encounter it. Naturally, the necessity to amputate it is not plentifully held. Some was obtained from a Kelowna drug store and a little more was secured in Pentiction. A further supply arrived from Vancouver. The woman will live, which, it is understood, is rather the exception than the rule in cases of this kind.

From a humanitarian point of view the case is also interesting. The woman is single and is dependent upon her earnings for her livelihood. The other case is also of interest from a humanitarian point of view. A man, woman and small child recently moved to Summerland to operate a property on a crop-share basis. The woman contracted scarlet fever. She could not be admitted to a hospital, and it was necessary for the husband to nurse her.

But, in order to protect the public, it was necessary for the health authorities to prohibit him from handling the fruit, which was a decided blow to a family in straightened circumstances and in these days of labor shortages. Serum to immunize them for a short period was given to both the husband and the daughter and apparently has been effective, as neither has shown signs of contracting the disease this week.

KAMLOOPS NINE HERE SUNDAY

Local Club Expect Strong Opposition From Mainliners

Kamloops will provide the opposition at the baseball diamond in the City Park next Sunday afternoon, and one of the best games of the season is expected. The Kelowna nine has been displaying too much power for most of the teams in the league, but with good pitching the mainline club should be a real threat.

Last Sunday at Revelstoke, the local aggregation ran wild with a 12-3 win in a loosely played contest.

Wostrowski started for Kelowna and pitched good ball for six innings, when Bach took over and had no trouble. A portender named Practice started for Revelstoke, but was knocked out of the box in the third, and the old work horse, Pradolin, went in the box. He was obviously past his prime, and his offerings were hit hard.

Bob Phinney enlivened proceedings somewhat by getting himself thrown out of the game in his later stages.

Townson won the award of $5.00 as the most valuable player, offered by the Kelowna manager. Luke played a fine game at first and got all the votes.

Mrs. C. A. Lockwood, of Boston, Mass., who had been visiting her brother, Mr. McKillop, at Oliver, is spending a few weeks visiting her sister, Mrs. Ruth Urquhart.

The funeral of the late Willis F. Schell, which was held in the First United Church, Kelowna, on Friday afternoon, June 30, was very largely attended. Rev. J. A. Petrie conducted the service, assisted by Rev. A. McMillan, former pastor, who gave a short address in which he referred to his acquaintance with the deceased as a friend and former neighbor and a man of high moral standards. Floral tributes were especially numerous and beautiful. Members of the Oddfellows Lodge attended the service and conducted last rites at the graveside. Pallbearers were: H. Bond, C. J. Duncan, R. E. White, Archie Hardy, F. L. Fitzpatrick and E. Muford.

Mrs. Ray Miller, of Vancouver, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Quigley, for a few weeks while her husband, Pte. Ray Miller, is attending a course of instruction on the prairies.

Mr. and Mrs. George Frederickson and two small sons and Miss Yvonne Flacey, all of Rossland, are visitors at the home of Mrs. Murray McKenzie.

Corporal Albert Minter arrived on Friday last from Trenton, Ontario, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Minter's father, the late Willis Schell. Pte. Minter, who is a member of the R.C.A.F., left on Tuesday to visit his parents at Chilliwack.

Mrs. Ewart Hardie and son, Reg, returned home to Kamloops on Friday last.

Cherry picking has started in earnest in the district this week, and packing of cherries is in full swing at McLean & Fitzpatrick's packing house.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hardie returned on Sunday from the coast.

Mrs. C. O. Burrows and son, Mack, of Fernside, Wash., are visiting Mrs. Burrows' sister, Mrs. Alf Berard.

Miss Lois Simpson, of Vancouver, is spending the summer holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Duncan.

Percy Bird, of South Slokan, and Charles Bird, of Trail, were visitors at the home of Mrs. W. F. Schell last week.

Capt. John Dillman, R.C.A.F., of Calgary, is spending a furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dillman.

John Bach and two daughters, of Vancouver, arrived by car to visit relatives in the district and are staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bach.

Residents are reminded of the annual school meeting, which is to be held on Wednesday next, July 12.

The local Bombed Britons committee will discontinue their meetings for the month of July, resuming the first Monday in August.

CHERRIES ARE NEEDED FOR "KELOWNA"

Committee Seeks Donations to Send to District's Name-Ship

With the fruit season again at hand, the local committee headed by D. C. Paterson is anxious that a supply of fruit from this district be again provided this year for the men of H.M.C.S. Kelowna, the Royal Canadian Navy ship named after this district.

In other years growers throughout the district have generously given over two or more packages of the various fruits as they came in season, and the committee is hoping that they will again cooperate. For instance, at the moment there is the matter of cherries. The crew of the ship is composed largely of men from the prairies and from the east. They are not familiar with the luscious type of cherry grown here and any supplies sent to them serve a dual purpose. They not only provide a tasty bit of fresh fruit for the men on the ship, but they also spread the fame of this district as a fruit growing centre.

Contributions from any person will be gratefully received by the committee. Any grower desiring to operate a cherry stand in the city, the first to his packing house, advising them that he desires to give such-and-such an amount of cherries to the Kelowna. The second call should be to D. C. Paterson at the Bank of Montreal, or to J. H. Drinkwater, inspector at B. C. Tree Fruits, who is chairman of the fresh fruits sub-committee of the H.M.C.S. Kelowna Committee. That all any grower has to do. Make two short phone calls. The committee looks after the rest. Growers so inclined should take action at once and advise the committee. A good supply of cherries can be sent to the eighty-odd men on the Kelowna while the cherries are at their best.

PAPER SALVAGE MUST CONTINUE

Public Asked To Keep Up Deposits Of Bundles At Depot

The Junior Board of Trade Salvage committee reports that Kelowna residents have made a fine response to the Government's appeal for waste paper, and the books on the corner of the street, outside the old McDonald's Garage used car shed is being well stocked.

Those who have cleaned out their supplies of paper are reminded that the campaign is continuing indefinitely and further accumulations will be appreciated. Those who have not yet assisted the drive are asked to get behind the drive and make the war effort and to drop off their old magazines and newspapers tied in bundles averaging 25 pounds. The need is great and is increasing with the momentum of the invasion, and there can be no let-up in the collections.

SPEAKS AT ROTARY

Col. E. Mallandaine, Reeve of Creston, was the guest speaker at the Rotary meeting on Tuesday, June 27. Mallandaine was the boy with the white shirt in the original picture of the driving of the last spike on the C.P.R. He attended over the ceremony at Revelstoke and on Tuesday told the Rotarians some of the details, as he recalled them, of the original ceremony.

Members of the family at home. The little girl, who was twelve years of age, had been ill for a long time from rheumatic fever and its after-effects, a heart ailment. The funeral was held at the Kelowna Anglican Church, and was conducted by Pastor P. S. Jones, of Kelowna.

Many Rutland residents motored to Kamloops for the Stampede on Dominion Day, while others visited the Pentiction sports. Rutland players on the Kelowna baseball team were taken to Revelstoke for a league game.

The Anglican Guild met at the home of Mrs. S. Mills on Tuesday afternoon, July 4. Amongst other business dealt with by the Guild, the ladies voted the sum of $6.00 to the "Save the Children Federation," an organization aiding starving refugee children, in Sweden. The Guild set Saturday, August 5 as the date of their home cooking and apron sale, to be held in the Kelowna Church. Rev. Mr. Hewitt, and his wife, were present at the meeting to become acquainted with the ladies. Refreshments were served at the close by the hostess.

G. Brummett left on Friday last for Kamloops, where he has since undergone a major operation at the Royal Inland Hospital. He is reported to be making satisfactory progress.

A meeting was held in the library room of the Community Hall on Monday night to hear an address by T. A. Switzer, Assistant Inspector of Credit Unions for B. C. The speaker was introduced by A. L. Ballock, leader of the Farm Forum Group, which was responsible for bringing Mr. Switzer to the district.

Some of the points brought out by Mr. Switzer were that credit unions were good for every one concerned, that the majority of loans made by them were less than in any other form of financial undertaking, and that now was the time to save for a rainy day, as the emblem of the credit unions—a raised umbrella—signified.

After the address it was decided unanimously to organize a credit union in Rutland immediately, and a temporary committee was appointed, with Pat Balfour as President and A. J. Sieben as Treasurer, and the application for a charter was completed and given to Mr. Switzer.

NEW TEACHERS APPOINTED FOR KELOWNA SCHOOLS

Four Resignations Announced—Five Replacements To Date

Four members of the staff of the Kelowna schools have resigned and replacements have been secured, according to a report released by E. W. Barton, School Board secretary. In addition, two teachers have been granted leave of absence. Mrs. Mary Smith and J. W. Plummer have tendered their resignations as members of the Kelowna High School staff and Miss Dorcas Edmunds has resigned from the Junior High School.

Final resignation is that of Mrs. Mary Austin, who has been acting as school nurse since the enlistment of Miss Dorothy McKenzie as a nursing sister.

WITHOUT BENEFIT OF PRESS

"World wars are a symptom of the impending unification of the world. A hundred years ago, unity of the world was an impossibility; now it is a necessity."

These sentences were spoken in the recent foreign affairs debate in the British House of Commons. They are characteristic of a strong revival of feeling in Britain in favor of international organization and more particularly of European unity.

One of the worst features of the paper shortage in Britain, which limits most daily papers to a meagre four pages, is that never was so much said by so many and read by so few—to paraphrase Prime Minister Churchill's historic words about the B.E.F. in the Battle of Britain. In the course of the two-day parliamentary debate last week, for instance, several speakers emphasized their conviction that only in co-operation with some form of unification could Europe find peace and thus make world peace possible.

Yet all these speeches, with all their important implications as signs of these times, were reported, if at all, in a few lines. One of the most forceful of these speeches was made by Captain Somerset de Chair, Conservative member for Norfolk, who is now back in Parliament after active war service in the Mediterranean theatre.

Here are some of the things he said, salvaged from drab columns of the House of Commons official report. "Not long ago, a pan-European committee was formed in this House and was addressed by Count Coudenhove-Kalergi, who for more than twenty years championed a conception of a united Europe. An interesting thing about that meeting is that nearly all of the back benches who were on that committee or have been members, some of the present prominent members, of the present Government."

Captain de Chair quoted from Churchill: "Conception of a United States of Europe is right."

"Every step taken to that end which appeases obsolete hatred and vanishes oppressions, which makes easier traffic and reciprocal services of Europe, which encourages its nations to lay aside their precautionary pangs, is good in itself—is good for the world, good for all."

He cited Lord Lothian's speech in St. Louis, that the future of Europe after the war must take the form of a European federation. He recalled the words of Winston Churchill in Birmingham, that Europe "should receive a new stable structure as United States or Commonwealth of Europe." And he continued: "In view of this array of authoritative opinion, who will dare say longer that the idea of a European federation is Utopian? The difficulty always has been to see how it could be brought about, but now, if ever, will be the opportunity."

"War and the destructive power of Nazi Germany have levelled familiar homes of European nations to a common heap of rubble called 'new order.' With the destruction of Germany this will be swept away and the foundation of the new Europe will be bare. All difficulties which obstructed construction of European unity before the war are now swept aside. All nations upon the Continent of Europe—and I emphasize the phrase—upon the Continent of Europe—are now more or less defeated by us in battle or will have owed their survival to our protecting force."

"Therefore, if Great Britain, Russia and the United States of America decide that the nations of Europe shall form a federation, a federation can be formed and a framework can be built. The ideal of a united Europe is no more Utopian today than was the conception of a United States of America in 1776. It may very well be that the constitution of the new Europe will follow similar lines."

"The Axis attempt to dominate the world has forced Britain, the United States, Russia and China into a partnership which at best can lead only to joint trusteeship of the globe for a generation after the war's stop. During that period of trusteeship, it will need all the wisdom of the world to prevent dangerous cleavages being driven between their ideas as to the method of administering the world. Obviously, there are a great many difficulties, but the point to realize is that, if we don't act quickly and resolutely when the world is in a state of flux immediately after the war, if we wait for the world to

You'll Get 50% MORE JAM or JELLY from your Fruit with Certo

SUCH A SHORT BOIL—With Certo there's no need for long, tedious boiling and stirring. Certo jams need only a one-to-two-minute full, rolling boil. So you get up to one-half more jam or jelly—from the same amount of fruit.

BETTER TASTE AND COLOUR—The short Certo boil does not spoil the natural taste or dull the natural colour of your fruit as long boiling does. Certo jams and jellies retain all the taste and colour of the fresh fruit. They are not only firmer and more sparkling—they taste better, look more appetizing.

NO GUESSWORK—With Certo you get a book of easy-to-follow recipes. Because different fruits need different handling there's a separate recipe for each fruit. Follow exactly the recipe for the fruit you are using and you can be sure of success.

WHAT CERTO IS—Certo is fruit pectin—the natural jelling substance in fruit—extracted from fruits in which it is most plentiful. It allows you to make jam or jelly from fully ripe fruit instead of the under-ripe fruit called for in old-fashioned recipes.

Look for Book of 72 Tested Recipes under the label of every Certo Bottle

DESCRIBES PARACHUTE EXPERIENCE

Sergt. Murray Brown Bailed Out At Night In Snow Storm At 16,000 Feet

Sergt. R. Murray Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown, of Maple Street, who is now with the Air Force in India, writes a most interesting letter to his parents describing training conditions in India and the other things he has seen and done. He is now in the 10th Bomber Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Force, and is currently training in India.

The following extracts from the letter will prove interesting reading to all those interested in following the experience of chaps serving in the air.

"We are now receiving training in a jungle school on how to look after ourselves if we have to come down in the jungle. Sergt. Brown writes: 'We are much higher than we were at Poonia, and I find the climate very much like ours in July and August—hot days and cool (sometimes quite cold) nights. As a matter of fact this is the best I've felt since coming to India. It's just like being back at Boy Scout camp."

"We are living in tents and, except for numerous insects and the occasional snake, it is most enjoyable, for me anyway. We are up at 6.30 a.m., parade at 7.30, and then we get used to it and to learn the things it takes to possess and there are many. Our instructor is Kingdon Ward, one of the foremost explorers of Burma in the world. At 1 p.m. we eat (the good old Army food, bully beef) at least three times a week) and are off until four, when we have organized sports for an hour. Happily for me, there are a lot of Canadians on the station plenty of them, and I am softball. I pitched eight innings the other day and now I'm so stiff I can hardly move, so you can see what kind of shape I'm in. We will be taught a bit more, but I think we will be able to make ourselves understood by those people—if we are posted there."

"We have a super-forecast here nearly every day. When one looks to the south-east he can see the storm forming. The clouds go to terrific heights, lovely and white at the top and black and very ominous looking at the bottom. When jagged flashes of lightning. When the storm breaks, there is generally a good wind blowing. This suddenly abates; there is a tremendous clash of thunder, and then it rains. By 'rain' I don't mean a rain like we have at home. Although never having stood under Niagara Falls, I imagine it's something very similar to that. After the sports field had about three to four inches of 'H<sub>2</sub>O' on it, I know, because I got caught in a storm—that was two showers I'd had that day! We will more than likely be here when the monsoon breaks, but don't worry, my ark is already built."

"No fooling though, I will be quite happy to spend as long as they want me to up here. Of course getting up at 6.30 is rather a bind, but even I can get used to that. As a matter of fact, so far I have been the 'alarm clock' in our tent the last week. Guess you'd like to know what it is like. Well, it is an inverted V (the usual tourist tent) with four of us in it. Fortunately, in a way, Ron Boudrey is an officer, so that means the other four of us don't have to be split up, being N.C.O.s. We have wooden beds (frames) on criss-crossed ropes as 'springs.' On top of our 'springs' we have a mattress made of heavy material of some sort, about 1/4-inch thick, and then two blankets. We have sheets woven from palm leaves available. On the floor there is a large woven cocoon mat, which keeps the bugs, etc. down a bit."

"The latrines are the old system, with a hole in the ground. We balance ourselves the best way we know how on this log and hope for the best. A shower consists of some one throwing water over you. The meals aren't up to much, but after a trek one can eat almost anything, so we don't worry much about that. Bit different than the last war, eh, Dad?

As a matter of interest, the place we are at receives 300 inches of rain during the monsoons!

Parachute Jump
"Now I am going to tell you something I'd never do until I got home. Perhaps you already know. Here goes anyway. "When I was at O.T.U. I had the enviable, but unwanted, chance to have to 'bail out.' We were behind our flying time, so that meant flying in weather in which we probably wouldn't have flown otherwise. It was a night cross country on November 14th (good reason for knowing the date). The sky was completely covered with cloud and a threat of snow was in the air. The meteorological report wasn't any too good—cloud from 2,000 feet to 16,000 feet, with an excellent chance of icing up before getting clear of cloud."

"My only chance of completing the route was to find a 'lane' in between two cloud layers. Unfortunately, we were flying over Wales, so the safety height was 4,000 feet, otherwise we would have flown under the cloud. We took off about midnight in a brand new kite, which gave some confidence to our troubled minds. Our only chance was to climb straight up into the cloud, so that we did. Unfortunately, we didn't find the lane, so had to continue up. When the altimeter registered 16,000 feet, we were in thick cloud—met. had 'boomed'."

"As you know, we were still in training, so we didn't know quite the wisest thing to do. We kept climbing. Just over 16,000 feet (temperature, -32°) the engines decided for us what we were to do. By this time we were heavily iced up, so the engines didn't give information every cut (in other words, stopped)."

"We could do nothing else but come down then. Arnold put the nose down and gained quite a bit of speed. The started the engines again. By this time everything had gone haywire. The altimeter was reading -400 feet (400 feet beneath the ground) and the engine was only clocking 2,400 r.p.m. at the very most. We didn't know where we were, in a terrific snowstorm and icing up all of the time. We lost control of the aircraft, so he told us to 'clip parachutes on.'"

"The people on the ground above the ground (it would give information to the ground) As Arnold was having a terrific lot of trouble holding the aircraft from going into a dive, he told us to 'abandon aircraft.'"

"Our rear gunner had gone some time before this, having confused the 'clip parachutes' with 'abandon aircraft.' We didn't know at the time, though. All we saw was his empty turret, and that was good enough for me."

"I went first. In the Wellington the escape hatch is just forward of the pilot's and bomb aimer's cockpit. I opened the escape hatch made sure it was open, then I dove out head first, making sure I had my hand securely on the ripcord of my 'chute. You may think what a lot of courage that must have taken, but in a position like that to me it just seemed the natural thing to do. In any case we had no alternative."

"I seemed that I rolled over once, saw the kite disappear into the snow and cloud, and then pulled the rip cord. What a difference! After the terrific rush of the engine, everything was so very quiet. I didn't even have the sensation of falling. Suddenly the 'chute opened with a terrific jerk. All I could hear was the swish of the engine, and right ahead of me I saw a light. I swore that it was coming straight for me and the funny thought made me angry, that, having got out of the kite, to have the doggone thing hit me in mid-air."

"I saw that it was a light on a hill. Then, just behind the light I heard a terrific explosion—the kite had crashed. Then, what seemed like a couple of seconds, but was more than likely a minute or so, the ground seemed to be rushing up to meet me at a terrific speed, and of course, with my luck, I was going straight for a clump of trees! I didn't want to spend the rest of the night hanging in mid air, so I pulled the shroud of the 'chute a bit and dropped practically straight down and hit the ground with a helluva (pardon the expression) bang. Although the sky was completely covered over, I think I saw the stars in the universe."

"Well, I was safe and sound, and that's all that mattered at the moment. Fortunately, I had no broken bones or sprains. The next thing to do was to find civilization and where I was. How convenient! I had landed about 150 yards from a farm house, so, gathering my 'chute up, I walked towards the house, promptly walking into a fence I didn't see, also waking up the dog. Fine pickle of fish to go through all that and then get bitten by a dog, but he proved to be a friendly old fellow. After knocking for a long time, I managed to wake up the farmer and he came downstairs and let me in."

"I told him what had happened, and he took it just as if it was an everyday happening, which kind of shook me, as I was beginning to feel more like myself, if not a little cocky for having bailed out and getting away with it. He told me I was in Worcestershire (where the farmer comes from), near Tunkley Wells, which is a village of about 500 people. He poured me half a cup of tea and fixed the other half for himself. That more or less put me together, but made me feel a bit sick in the stomach."

"The next thing to do was to get in touch with the aerodrome and police, so that they could organize a search for the rest of the crew. The farmer said he would drive me into town, so I accepted, after he insisted, as I had already smoked about twenty of his cigarettes. On our way into the village we saw the N.F.S. (National Fire Service) and they had just been to the wreck and told us that there was no one in the kite as far as they knew. I heaved a big sigh of relief, as that was one of my chief worries since I'd hit the deck."

"We arrived at the police station and I was the first of the crew to arrive, so I got through to the aerodrome and told them what had happened. Then came the dreadful wait to see if all the rest of the crew came back. In about half an hour Arnold came in minus flying boots. He was last to bail out and got caught while getting out. The slipstream whipped his boots off while he was disentangling himself. When I saw his face, it was the most welcome sight I have ever seen. If he had gone out a minute later, I would have a different skipper now."

"We went to the hospital and finally got to bed about 4 a.m. At the hospital we found the W. Op. and Nav. The Gunner was 30 miles away at the time, but he was safe and sound, and that's all that mattered."

WILL GROW HUGE POTATOES

Sweet potatoes as big as watermelons will be turned into starch when the United States Sugar Corporation opens its $7,000,000 starch house in Florida next fall.

Don't let your mouth start watering, however. They aren't edible. The new enterprise will form an additional source for starch needed in a number of war industries, and will give the rich Everglades growing district a new crop.

LONDON.—When plans were first being worked out for saturation bombing, there was some fear that a great number of bombers arriving over the targets at the same time, it might result in many collisions. In practice, however, this was not the case. The chances of one bomber colliding with another in a thousand—a good deal better than the chance one would take of being shot down by flak when the attack is spread over a long period and the German anti-aircraft guns are able to pick out the bombers individually.

NEW RECIPE!

Make Your Own CHOCOLATE SYRUP with FRY'S COCOA

EASY TO MAKE—EASY ON SUGAR

Take  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup of FRY'S COCOA and  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup of sugar. Mix well together dry. Slowly add  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup of boiling water, stirring meanwhile. Boil for one minute. Then pour into a clean dry glass jar. Cover and let cool. Keep this tasty chocolate syrup handy in the ice box, ready for instant use.

Ideal for Chocolate Milk, Ice Cream and Desserts

Many women say this new FRY'S recipe is just the very thing they've been looking for, and you too will be delighted with the many ways you can use it to improve desserts, etc. For instance, you'll find it most appetizing as a hot or cold sauce on ice cream and on desserts, and it's specially delicious for making chocolate milk.

CHOCOLATE MILK

Whenever You Want It!

To a glass of thoroughly chilled milk add 2 dessert spoons of chocolate syrup. Stir and serve. It's delicious!

LIVE STOCK MEN, PACKERS MEET

What may prove to be an historic meeting took place in the Vancouver Hotel, when the B.C. Live Stock Producers Co-operative Association had as their guests at a luncheon, the representatives of the Meat Packing Industry in B.C.

Representing the Live Stock Association were the President, Mr. Brian K. deP. Chance, Manager of the Douglas Lake Cattle Co., Directors, Messrs. H. S. Cleasby, of Merritt, Alan Cameron, of Ashcroft, Alex. Bylman, of Kamloops, J. C. Leaman, Manager of the Yards and Sales in Vancouver, and R. H. Carson, who has been active in the organization and is Secretary.

Representing the Packing Industry were: Messrs. H. Williamson and Geo. Lerone, of Burns & Co., Messrs. O. Pearson and Bert Crawford, of Swift & Co., Messrs. Geo. MacDonald and Reynolds, of Canada Packers, Messrs. Harold Galner, H. E. Edwards and Geo. Leary, of Galmers Limited, Mr. J. Foulke, of the Alberta Meat Co., Mr. J. Brown, of Brown and Son, Mr. J. Diamond and Mr. A. Smith, of Pacific Meat Co.

Mr. Chance explained the meeting was arranged as a follow up to the earlier meeting during the Kamloops Bull Sale and Fat Stock Show. He acquainted the Packers with progress made by the Live Stock Association and outlined to them our plan of operations in the hope that they would co-operate with us in the marketing of cattle and lambs which have been produced in this Province.

Mr. Chance explained that in order to avoid the duplication of gas and difficulty in obtaining tires, the Association was engaging competent Field Men who would look after the grading and shipping of the cattle and lambs, thereby enabling the Packers to place their orders with our Manager in Vancouver.

After a general discussion on the problems of marketing, the Packers intimated their willingness to give the plan a trial.

It is hoped, and the Producers Association believes, that the adoption of this plan will mark a new era for live stock men in this Province. It is expected that the plan will result in orderly marketing, which will be of advantage to the Packers in that it should remove the heavy fluctuations in the prices the Packers are required to pay, while at the same time they are required to operate under the ceiling adopted by the Wartime Prices Board.

A further advantage will be that the Producer will receive a greater share of the consumer's dollar without any additional cost to him. A large percentage of the beef and lambs that have been shipped to the Vancouver Packers have been handled through the Association.

Under a new plan, retiring officers or discharged airmen or airwomen will be transferred to the city or district in which they lived prior to enlistment are establishing residence. They will be referred to the Department of Pensions and National Health and the Employment and Selective Service offices for rehabilitation before donning service uniform.

The plan is the result of long months of study. It is a temporary measure which will be the basis of a more elaborate plan to be ready when general demobilization gets underway.

LT. R. BROWNE-CLAYTON TELLS EXPERIENCES

Wounded, Captured, Operated On, Strained and Liberated

Lieut. R. D. Browne-Clayton, who was wounded in Italy, captured by the Germans and released during the British advance, in two letters received by his father, L. D. Browne-Clayton, of Okanagan Mission, tells of his experiences. He writes:

"The story is this: On the 23rd of May we were putting in an attack on the Hitler Line at six o'clock in the morning. I was hit in the chest by shrapnel, near the objective. It was only a flesh wound, which I patched up all right. But some moments later Jerry mortar landed beside me while I was lying in the ditch and caught me a nasty one in the head. I retained consciousness, though, and patched that up too, but felt too weak to move, so I lay there from seven in the morning till about five in the afternoon. Lost a lot of blood but felt better then and had hopes of making our lines after dark, as the attack had been cut up and there were Jerries all round me.

"Unfortunately, they found me and took me prisoner (lost my watch, forger and penicillin etc.). They treated me well and I was sent back through their hospitals, where I was patched up and had two operations on my head. I spent five days in a hospital in Rome, where I was very well taken care of, but on June 1st was put in an ambulance in the evening with Florence as my final destination.

"Fate went to work and about thirty miles north of Rome we were strafed by an American plane, a terrifying experience. Four out of the ten of us were parked in a hospital nearby. An awful place, where I spent a very miserable week. Then, joy! Tanks roaring past outside, and finally got it from the Jerries that we were in British hands and that Rome had fallen. On the 7th they moved all thirteen of us Allied prisoners of war into very nice rooms and gave us much better attention than we were used to. That evening two South African doctors came to visit us and arranged for all who were fit to move to go back to British hospitals that night. I was one of the lucky ones.

"After moving to a very comfortable British casualty clearing station, where I am resting for a day or two before going home, I found my chest is healing well and no trouble. The head has a nasty horizontal 'U' cut which took part of the left ear, and I think I have lost my hearing on that side. It has also knocked my lower jaw to the left, so that my teeth don't meet tight, so can't chew very well. The left eye also is sore and bloodshot, from blast, I guess. "All these will be mended in time, with the exception, perhaps, of the hearing, but it will be a long time before I am fit for duty again."

"The above was written on June 9th. Ten days later, on the 19th, he wrote: "The actual wounds are healing very well under good treatment at 15th General Hospital. The ear specialist was in to give me an examination today and said that the left ear drum is shattered, so it is very unlikely that I will regain my hearing on that side, but consider myself lucky at that, as the right side is still quite okay!"

"The jaws, they say, will come right in time as the wound heals and the swelling caused goes down. Still get very bad headaches at times, but the sisters are always handy with a few pills which knock them out quickly. Also delicious egg-nogs to put weight on me."

"Managed to get all my hair cropped short yesterday and washed. It was in an awful state, still matted with blood and dirt, as I'd had bandages around it since the 23rd. "There are eight of us in this ward, all seriously wounded cases, but all very cheerful and much chatter back and forth during the more active periods of the day."

TO BRING SUPPLIES TO FRENCH

Allies Prepared to Bring Food, Goods And Machinery To Liberated Peoples

LONDON.—To all the countries for which Axis occupation has meant destruction, hunger and death, the Allied liberation will bring rebuilding, food and life.

In the wake of the United Nations' armed forces will follow special relief units and specialists in rehabilitation. Preparation for this relief work has been going on as part of the Allied invasion plans.

Three immediate and imperative needs of occupied peoples will be food, clothing and medical care. After these will come the need for seeds, agricultural implements, household goods, educational facilities, and a thousand things which have either been destroyed or "New Ordered" by the Axis.

A British, Canadian and American organization has been set up, one of its objects being production and supply of textiles of all kinds for liberated countries.

The Technical Advisory Committee of the Allied Post-war Requirements Bureau, which has been merged with the U.N.R.R.A., has discussed many aspects of medical treatment which will be needed in liberated Europe, including emergency equipment for midwives, supplies for improvised maternity homes, and special treatment for victims of tuberculosis and typhus. There is little doubt that when the Nazis in Europe retreat they will leave burning or flooded grain fields and complete devastation behind them. At the earliest possible moment, the fields of Europe must be sown again with seeds whose harvest will feed the people.

HARRY W. WITT HEADS JAYCEES IN PROVINCE

Penticton Regional Conference Elects Kelowna Man Director

Harry W. Witt, past president of the Kelowna Junior Board of Trade, was elected Executive Director for the B. C. section at the annual regional conference of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, held in Penticton last week.

The popular young Kelowna business man won out in a close fight with Jack Young, of Penticton, and he will head activities in British Columbia during the next twelve months. He was installed at the banquet held on Tuesday night, at which Hon. K. C. MacDonald was the guest speaker.

Following are the district chairmen as elected by the convention: Hedley Fairbanks, Lower Mainland; Lou Felsenthal, Northern District; Tom Armstrong, Kootenay; W. B. Meares, Vancouver Island; Jim McClelland, of Kelowna, Okanagan.

The invitation of Trail to hold the 1945 convention in the Smelter City was accepted, and the tentative dates for this conference were set for May 25 and 26.

It was suggested that one of the B. C. Junior Boards make a bid for the national convention next year.

KELOWNA SEA CADET CORPS "Greenville"

A general parade of the whole Corps is called for Monday, July 10. This parade will be held in the Armory at the usual time. It is requested that every member of the Corps who can possibly attend this parade will do so. Matters relating to the Regatta will be dealt with. No uniforms are necessary.

It is very important that every member of the Corps who is going to attend camp attend every parade from now on. Several matters have already turned up that it is necessary for them to know and others will come any time from now on. It is impossible to complete arrangements unless all help by getting on parade. A few names can still be added if any one has changed his mind and finds that he can go to camp after all.

All members going to camp will have to be medically examined first. This medical will be held on Monday, July 10, and Thursday, July 13, during parade. Any one missing these parades will not be able to go to camp at all.

Wife: "I took great pains with that cucumber salad I made." Hubby: "So did I."

CONVENTION OPPOSES JAP REPATRIATION

Vancouver Junior Board Group Head Opposition To Resolution Backed By Kelowna

A resolution advocating repatriation of all Japanese in Canada after the war, which was introduced at the Junior Chamber of Commerce convention in Penticton last week, was voted down by a substantial majority.

The resolution was introduced by the Surrey delegation, and was strongly supported by the Kelowna representatives. Harry Witt made a fighting speech in favor of the proposal, but the convention followed the recommendation of the Resolutions Committee and voted it down. The Resolutions Committee took the ground that it made the issue one of "race," and that decisions of this kind were of national significance and better left to the Federal Government. Jud Ribelin, Kelowna Jaycee President, answered this by stating that organizations such as those present should take the lead in telling the Government what the citizens desired.

After opposing the resolution, the Vancouver delegation introduced a later motion which asked the Government to appoint a commission to investigate the Japanese question with a view to an "equitable solution." This was passed unanimously.

CADET CAMPS
Kelowna Army Cadets have left for two weeks' camp at Chilliwack, and the Air Cadet Squadron will leave for Patricia Bay July 25. Royal Canadian Navy Cadets will also leave for their Vancouver Island camp later in the month, returning at the end of the month by the convention.

HOLD HIGH THE TORCH OF FREEDOM

WAR-TIME SAVING for NATIONAL and PERSONAL Security

Every thoughtful person agrees that in this time of war SAVING should be practised intensively, and for the following reasons:

- 1) Financing the war
- 2) Keeping prices down
- 3) Providing for the future

By saving instead of spending now, you will help yourself and your country—provide for Canada's security today and your own security tomorrow.

KELOWNA IN
BYGONE DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO
Thursday, July 2, 1914

"The celebrations at Armstrong and Penticton yesterday were attended by large crowds of Kelownians, who took advantage of the special steamers, while a number also travelled by motor car to Armstrong. The town was as quiet as on an old-fashioned Scottish Sabbath, but the few people left here developed such an appetite for ice cream, induced by the typical Okanagan brand of Dominion Day weather, with cloudless sky and blazing sunshine, that the supply of the delicacy was completely exhausted long before the demand had ceased."

The number on the roll of the Kelowna Public School at the close of the summer term was 395, with an average attendance of 350.70, or 88 per cent.

At a meeting of the City Council, Ald. D. W. Sutherland reported that there was no change in the financial position of the City, and that it would be impossible, at that time, to discharge all its liabilities incurred against general revenue. After some discussion, it was decided to pay accounts in the following order as the necessary funds shall have been received: school teachers' salaries, city officials' salaries, local accounts, general accounts.

Out of nearly one hundred applications for the position of principal of the Kelowna Public School, the Board of Trustees finally selected R. P. Richardson, of Pense, Sask., who for ten years had held the position of principal at various schools in the Dominion, chiefly in Nova Scotia. He was the holder of an Academic certificate for that province, as well as a First Class certificate for British Columbia.

A large silver-tip bear was shot by Alex Crawford and Joe Larson on the Forestry Branch trail to Little White Mountain, between fifteen and twenty miles from Kelowna, and the skin was on exhibition in the window of the Morrison-Thompson Hardware Co. Although rather late in the season, it was in fine condition. The bear was estimated to weigh nearly 800 pounds, and it took several shots to dispose of him.

At this time local officials of the Forestry Branch were preparing to construct a lookout on the summit of Little White Mountain, about 22 miles from Kelowna and over 7,000 feet above sea level. The trail, built the previous year, was being improved so that timber could be taken in for erection of the building, which would have to be anchored down, to ensure safety from the violent gusts of wind to which it would be exposed on its site of bare rock above the timber line.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
Thursday, July 3, 1914

"A small quantity of ripe tomatoes are already finding their way to the local stores. They are mostly the 'Sunrise' variety."

"Over one hundred tourist cars have already passed through the city this season, forty per cent of the owners camping here."

"Local express shipments of cherries average about a carload cases daily. The varieties shipped are mostly Bings and Lamberts."

"Work on the Peachland-Princeton road was stopped on Saturday, June 28th. Work has also been suspended on the Kelowna-Naramata road and the new diversion on the Joe Rich road." (Note: The provincial general election was on June 20th.)

"Last Thursday, the Kelowna Tobacco Co. loaded a two-ton car of four-year-old tobacco leaf, which was shipped to Montreal. There is no local acreage under tobacco this season."

"The plague of grasshoppers, which is worst at the northern end of the Rutland district, is not causing as much damage as anticipated. The truck crops are being comparatively safe, but considerable harm is being done to alfalfa."

After a lengthy discussion, the Senate Committee on Railways on the night of July 2nd reported to the Senate the bill for construction of the Canadian National branch line from Kamloops to Kelowna. Of the twenty-six bills for branch construction, four were killed outright in committee, and the Kelowna branch met with strong opposition from the C.P.R., which, however, it managed to survive, and all that remained was third reading by the Senate as a whole. Credit was given for the success so far attained to the indefatigable efforts on behalf of the branch of Thomas Bulman, of Kelowna, T. G. McBride, M. P. for Carleton Place, and the late J. A. MacKellvie, M.P. for Yale, who died before the bill reached the Senate but fought manfully for its passage through the House of Commons.

About twelve hundred children of Kelowna and district enjoyed the hospitality of the Kelowna Elks Lodge on their annual Flag Day, held on Thursday, June 28th. A procession was formed, which marched from the Public School to the City Park, each child being equipped with a Union Jack and tickets for the ice cream social. The afternoon was spent in enjoyment of races and games, with frequent interludes for refreshments.

TEN YEARS AGO
Thursday, July 5, 1934

"Twenty-five cars of fruit and vegetables were shipped out of Kelowna last week."

"The s.s. 'Okanagan,' understood to have been condemned for further lake service, will not operate this year. The C.P.R. has put into service an extra tug and barge to assist in handling the increasing volume of freight."

LOTS OF RAIN,
WARMER DAYS
DURING JUNE

Month Was Warmer And Wetter Than June, 1943—Warmest Day 90 Degrees

The June weather report, released by Government Weather Observer Dave Chapman, shows that the month just passed was warmer than June, 1943, and almost twice as much rain fell during the 30-day period.

Rainfall was prevalent during the month, and totalled 1.75 inches in comparison with .99 a year ago. In fact, the rainfall during the past month exceeded that in June, 1942, when flood conditions were experienced. Average maximum for the month was 78.8 and average minimum was 50.5. Maximum and minimum averages a year ago were 80.1 and 48.1. Warmest day was Thursday, June 29, when the mercury rose to 90.

Following are the complete figures for the month as recorded by the weather observer:

HOSTELS FOR WORKERS AT PENTICTON

High School Students Will Arrive From Kootenays

Arrangements have been completed with the Canadian Canners' Western, Ltd., in Penticton, to use the bunk house behind the cannery there as a second labor hostel to accommodate High School girls, mostly from Nelson and Trail, for the cherry harvest.

In addition, agreement has been reached with the management of the Empress Cafe to provide room and board for a small number of High School boys of suitable age who will also be imported.

The cannery bunk house will accommodate 44 people, and it is expected that the girls will bring their own hostel directors and cooks. In Nelson, Trail and Princeton, Selective Service officers are making a careful selection of High school students of 16 years and older who possess the required physical development to undertake cherry orchard work.

Because of the fact that High School boys and girls are both joining the forces in large numbers just now, there will probably be very few on hand.

However, because of the careful selection of the girls, grocers will get labor fully capable of handling the cherry picking, and they are asked to contact the Placement Officer immediately in regard to their requirements around July 15, which is the date when these students will probably arrive.

It is stressed that the hostels at the cannery bunk house and the I.O.O.F. Hall are both under the supervision of the Penticton Women's Institute and the Agricultural committee of the Board of Trade.

Always on hand. In rifle shooting, returned to its native Kelowna on Sunday, July 3, as a result of magnificent team work on the part of Kamloops marksmen. It had been absent from Kamloops for some twenty-five years, and had been won in 1922 and 1923 by a Kelowna team. While losing possession of the splendid trophy by a margin of 12 points, the visiting Kelowna five had the satisfaction of bringing back with them the Barber Cup for high score at 500 yards, won by Harry McCall with a near-possible of 34 points. Nine teams took part in the shoot besides fourteen unattached marksmen, a total attendance of fifty-nine.

After a stormy passage through the House of Commons and the Senate, the Natural Products Marketing Act became law by royal assent on Tuesday, July 3rd.

Young Kelowna athletes gave a good account of themselves at the track and field sports held at the Penticton Dominion Day celebration, at which stars from Vancouver Island, the lower mainland and the interior competed. Youthful Marjorie Todd won the 100 yards for girls in 11 7-10 seconds and the 60 yards in 7 2-5 seconds. Teamed with Joyce Jennens, Joan McCall and Primrose Walker, she shared in the victory the Kelowna quartette over Penticton in the 300 yards relay. Joyce Jennens captured the 60 yards girls' hurdles in 9.4 seconds.

LADIES' AUX. NAMES REGATTA COMMITTEES

Appoint Members To Handle Various Regatta Functions

Conveners and committees for the Regatta were appointed on Monday evening, July 3, at a supper meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, held at the Aquatic. Following supper, a short sing-song was enjoyed with Miss Isobel Rhodes at the piano.

Mrs. R. H. Wilson will act as convenor for the Regatta raffle, assisted by Miss Marybeth Ryan, Mrs. Frances Facey, Mrs. Mary Austin and Miss Audrey Hughes.

The Auxiliary's concessions will be conveyed by Miss Gwen Macdonald, with a committee: Mrs. R. F. Walrod and Miss A. Hughes. Mrs. E. R. Winter will once again head the Billposting committee, the personnel of which includes Mrs. H. Johnston, Miss Christine Burt, Mrs. George Ellis, Mrs. D. Disney, Mrs. W. J. Logie, Mrs. R. P. MacLean and Mrs. Mary Austin.

The President of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Austin, will look after the arrangements for the annual Ladies' Auxiliary Regatta banquet, which will be held on Thursday, August 3, when all out-of-town swimmers and special guests are entertained by the Auxiliary. Her committee consists of Mrs. C. M. DeMara, Mrs. Robin Kendall, Mrs. Wm. Bulman and Mrs. George Wilson.

Arrangements for the pre-banquet cocktail party, which this year will be held at the home of Mrs. Dick Stewart, Harvey Avenue, will be made by Mrs. Wilson, McMillan, wife of the Aquatic Association president, and her committee includes Mrs. R. P. MacLean, Mrs. Dick Stewart, Mrs. W. J. Logie and Mrs. Charles Gaddes.

Once again the distribution of ribbons and trophies will be in the hands of Mrs. M. dePuyffer, Mrs. W. J. Logie and Miss A. Hughes. A committee, consisting of Mrs. Charles Gaddes, Mrs. W. J. Logie and Mrs. M. dePuyffer, was appointed to select a queen from the Auxiliary to represent the organization in the annual Lady of the Lake competition.

Following the meeting, an auction sale of articles left over from the sale of work held on June 8 was conducted by the President.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held on Monday evening, July 10, when further Regatta plans will be made.

Women's Meetings
Women's meetings, for which no admission charge is made, may be advertised free of cost under this heading. Copy must be given The Courier before 5 p.m. Tuesdays.

The Bombed Britons Society will be closed from Friday, July 7th, until Monday, July 24th, for alterations. Every possible worker will be needed after that date as there is an urgent need for clothing.

MAN'S WORLD

Howard Carruthers, who had spent the past two months visiting in Kelowna, left on Sunday for his home at Yellowknife. Mrs. Carruthers and children will remain in Kelowna for the time being.

George Handlen has returned from Vancouver, where he spent the past ten days.

Bill Guerdar, Penticton, was a visitor in Kelowna on Tuesday of this week.

Capt. R. A. Heath, Vernon, was a guest of the Royal Anne Hotel during the past week.

HOSTESS CLUB TAG DAY

The Kelowna Servicemen's Hostess Club will hold its annual tag day on Saturday, July 15th. The funds raised will be used to equip their clubrooms and provide greater facilities and comforts for the service men and women who spend their leaves in this district.

VICTORIA "Y" WILL SEND FINE TEAM

Archie McKinnon's Gang Will Be Real Threat

Archie McKinnon writes from Victoria that he expects to have a representative contingent for the Regatta, with good competitors in the senior men's events and the junior girls. The senior women are a scarce commodity this year, he states, and Marina Bothe may be the only entry.

Bill Turkington, who broke the Canadian medley record in Vancouver this spring, will be on hand. Along with him will be Thornton Opis, just out from Toronto, who does a good freestyle, also breast and backstroke.

Ken Hurn is another new name. He used to swim for the "Y" and is now back in the fold. These three will provide strong competition in the senior men's events.

The junior boys section has Don Smyth, Dick Bowden, Peter Salmon and Wade Hansen. They are the B. C. relay champs, and Peter Salmon is a good 150 yards medley swimmer.

The junior girls will be headed by Ina Salmon, Joan Morgan and Allen Smith, who form a very fast medley relay team. Archie says that Ina Salmon is developing into a crack medley swimmer, and he believes she will break the Canadian record in the junior medley at the Regatta.

The group hopes also to bring Ted Rau, smooth performer of the diving board, who will find lots of competition this year.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Orange Benevolent Association will be held in the Orange Hall on July 10, at 8:00 p.m.

REHABILITATION COMMITTEE CHANGE

Capt. Paul Hayes Takes New Position — W. J. Anderson Succeeds As Secretary

W. J. Anderson has been appointed secretary of the Kelowna and District War Veterans and Rehabilitation Committee, succeeding Captain Paul Hayes, who resigned to accept the position of district field officer of the Canadian Vocational Training Department, which is concerned with the vocational training of returned men and women. He assumed his new duties on July 1.

Since the formation of the local Rehabilitation Committee, Captain Hayes has acted as secretary, and it is largely through his efforts in the handling of that office that the local organization has received many expressions of appreciation for its work from provincial headquarters, and has gained the reputation of being one of the most active, efficient and effective rehabilitation groups in the province.

However, the committee feels that it has been fortunate in securing the services of W. J. Anderson, a returned man who has been overseas for three and a half years and, since his discharge on health grounds, has resided for several months in Kelowna. Mr. Anderson has taken over the duties of secretary and will carry out the policies laid down by the committee.

The matter of land settlement and the possibility of bringing further desirable lands in the area under irrigation and cultivation is one in which the agricultural sub-committee is interested, and in that connection the sub-committee, under Mr. Wilkinson, will meet shortly with the Board of Trade Reconstruction committee, which is directly concerned with such possible developments.

Up to date, seventy returned men and women have registered with the local committee. Placements continue to be made and the committee has been able to secure various of the benefits provided under Government legislation for returned men, including vocational courses, allowances and educational benefits. Members of the forces on leave furlough frequently call at the office for information and advice, and there is every indication that the value and urgency of the work of the committee will increase as greater numbers return to civilian life.

COUNCIL AGREES TO HEAR CLAIM

Further Discussion Of Damage Claim Suggested

Further discussion by the City Council regarding the claim of Mrs. W. J. McKelvie for compensation for injuries as a result of a fall from her bicycle on Pendozi Street ended with a suggestion that the Council will be willing to hear further representations. A letter will be sent to the claimant suggesting that she appear before the Council, when certain details can be clarified.

A report on the matter by Ald. G. W. Sutherland indicated that proper barriers were placed to prevent traffic on Cadder Avenue, which was being closed. Mrs. McKelvie sustained injuries when she fell from her cycle on Pendozi Street, and it was suggested that a small amount of oil may have been deposited by the truck when making the turn at the intersection. Ald. Sutherland stated that sand was placed over such spots as soon as they were noticed.

war, but it remains comparatively simple. Today, a candidate for naturalization papers must file notice of his intentions a year before he can submit his application. Then a period of three months elapses, during which the Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigate the applicant. If their report discloses no grounds for withholding citizenship, it is formally approved of by a judge at a short ceremony in open court, and naturalization papers are issued at Ottawa.

The St. Catharines judge is convinced that far too many immigrants acquire citizenship in lighthearted fashion, and remain serenely indifferent to the duties and responsibilities which should attach to it. Undoubtedly it is true, as he alleges, that there are scattered all over Canada, chiefly in rural areas, compact groups of foreign-born people possessing Canadian citizenship who live in racial enclaves, stick firmly to their own native tongue, customs and traditions, and never use the English language. As long as such people remain segregated from Canadianizing influences and divorced from our ideals and ways of life, they cannot be wholly satisfactory citizens.

Judge Stanbury is determined to exercise the discretion which resides in him as a judge to prevent the bestowal of citizenship upon unworthy persons. Any applicant suspected of pacific tendencies or subversive activities will get short shift with him, and he will in future insist upon a fair knowledge of the English tongue as an essential qualification for citizenship. He would also see the citizenship conferred only at a very impressive public ceremony. He would have it graced not only by the county judge as at present, but by the local mayor or warden and their councils. Such a dignified, colorful ceremony would help make the applicant feel that their formal admission to the Canadian national community was a solemn occasion of importance in their lives.

But Judge Stanbury would go even further, and insist upon some preliminary instruction on the responsibilities of citizenship and British ideals and traditions before naturalization was granted. He has compiled what he calls a basic primer, designed to instruct intending citizens about Canadian and British ideals and ways of life, and about their duty to take an active part in public affairs and exercise their franchise. Its publication will have to be postponed until after the war, but when it is available he proposes that during the three-month period of probation all applicants for citizenship be obliged to study this primer carefully and pass an examination on its contents. Upon the successful passage of this examination the final grant of citizenship would depend.

In this proposal there seems very considerable merit, and it deserves serious consideration. If it were carried into effect, it would ensure that hereafter all new Canadians had at least some elementary knowledge of Canadian and British ideals and traditions, and some qualification for our citizenship other than good moral character and a record of peaceful behaviour. Today, with unemployment insurance, family allowances and other projects of social security, Canadian citizenship confers automatically the right to very substantial material benefits. Judge Stanbury is right in urging that people who are to be beneficiaries of the political, social and financial privileges of Canadian citizenship should have a proper appreciation of their value and of the duties and responsibilities which should be assumed as a fair return for them. They would thus be enabled to make a useful contribution to the common stock of national life.

It is a poor open-work scandal that doesn't give a girl at least a toe-hold.

Veneral Disease Treatments

If the Gallup Poll can be taken as a fair guide, there is no longer any need for our health authorities to hold their punches in the treatment of veneral diseases. The Canadian public, apparently, are quite willing—eager, even—to have the whole subject placed squarely in the open and drastic action be taken to combat the evil.

Recently the Gallup Poll conducted a survey. Ninety-three per cent of the people said that lectures should be given to senior high school students in this subject, and ninety-four per cent expressed the opinion that treatment for the disease should be made compulsory.

It is only a matter of a few years ago that veneral disease was a subject studiously avoided in all conversation. It was never seen mentioned in print excepting in medical books or by inference in carefully worded advertisements of quack doctors in certain types of magazines.

But during recent years newspapers and magazines have been discussing the problem, and it is now being placed where it rightfully belongs as a national problem of the same seriousness as cancer or tuberculosis. Probably there are in Canada some who will deplore the tendency to discuss such a subject publicly, but their numbers are growing fewer and fewer, and, if the Gallup Poll can be considered a guide, the health authorities will find ready support for any measures they wish to adopt in their fight against this disease.

Because of its social nature, health authorities have been reluctant, probably, to make treatment of veneral disease compulsory. If so, they have moved more slowly than public opinion itself. Compulsory treatment, plus compulsory pre-marital examinations for everyone, might go far in eliminating what is rapidly becoming our outstanding medical and social problem.

BEACH CONTROL BYLAW PROMISED BY CITY COUNCIL

City Will Seek Power To Prevent Swimming In Prohibited Areas

Immediate steps will be taken by the City Council to pass a by-law giving the City power to control swimming at all public beaches within the city limits.

The move follows representations made to the Council on Monday night by Ald. J. J. Ladd and J. H. Gordon as representatives of the Kelowna Aquatic Association.

At a recent public Regatta meeting a motion was passed asking that the delegation meet the Council in an effort to secure prohibition of bathing in the area south of the Aquatic now marked by signs. A patrol by a police officer or special policeman was suggested.

The matter resulted in considerable discussion when it was placed before the Council. At the outset, Ald. O. L. Jones suggested that a by-law be prepared giving the City power of control. This followed statements that at present the police did not prevent bathing in any area owing to lack of regulations.

The Council indicated that after the by-law is passed a patrol will be maintained for some weeks to ensure that swimmers do not enter the prohibited area, and prosecutions will follow infractions of the law in this regard.

An appeal for an extension of facilities for the youngsters was made by Ald. Sutherland, who pointed out that the Aquatic pool was inadequate for the hundreds of children wishing to use the beach. Extension of Aquatic jurisdiction north of the present boundary towards the City Park entrance was suggested, and a committee will meet with the Kelowna Aquatic Association directorate to discuss the problem.

The chief difficulty facing any plan for additional beach facilities for the younger children is the fact that the whole stretch of beach has a sudden drop-off near the shore and is definitely unsafe without a constant patrol.

It was suggested by Ald. Jones that a cement wading pool might be built in the Park for use by the younger children, but it was felt that the majority would naturally prefer to use the beach.

TRADE BOARD SEEKS SOME ASSURANCE

Presses Again for Word About Auxiliary Ferry Service

On Tuesday the Executive Council of the Kelowna Board of Trade decided to again approach the Minister of Public Works regarding the provision of an auxiliary ferry service during the period when the M.S. Pendozi is taken out of the water for inspection and overhauling.

About three weeks ago the Board wrote the Minister asking about the auxiliary service but up to Tuesday had received no reply. This matter had been broached on previous occasions by the Board but no satisfactory reply had been given.

On Tuesday, Alderman Hughes-Games stated that when the matter was discussed by the City Council it was agreed that no action was necessary, as it was impossible to think that such a service would not be provided. The Council just could not believe there was any danger of traffic between Kelowna and southern points being entirely cut off.

The Board of Trade, on the other hand, believes that there is a very real danger of this happening and is pressing for some assurance from the department that it has some intention of providing the auxiliary service.

were told by President McGill that plans were well in hand for the Regatta with the exception of the Thursday night show. Outstanding aquatic stars from the Coast, the United States, and possibly from Eastern Canada, would be on hand for the swimming and diving events, and the Kelowna Junior Board of Trade would produce the Wednesday night entertainment, which centres around the choice of the Lady of the Lake.

Possibilities for Thursday evening included a repeat "Combined Ops" landing by Army specialists and a high-class vaudeville show. Both of these features were still in the embryo stage at present, it was stressed, and there was no assurance that either could be arranged. These two features received the approval of the meeting and the program was left with the directors for final decision.

The recommendation of the directors that the net proceeds be given to the Kelowna and District Rehabilitation Committee was the first matter to come before the meeting, and there was no doubt of the unanimous approval of all concerned. Robert Whillis, chairman of the committee, gave a brief outline of the work being done by the committee and stressed that it rendered invaluable service, particularly in "boarding-up" cases where the Federal Government has some doubt of the applicant's eligibility for benefits. These cases are presented by the committee's secretary, who is an expert in the matter, and the Government welcomed such assistance. It was pointed out that the secretary had to be paid and that no aid from Ottawa was coming so far as his salary was concerned. His tenure of office was estimated as three years by Mr. Whillis, who told the meeting that the money from the Regatta would go far to pay the expense involved.

The meeting adjourned with the feeling that it was one of the most successful held in Regatta history, and the interest shown augurs well for the success of the gala next August.
